ECHO OF TRAGEDY IN BIGAMY CHARGE

Prominent Tennessean is Accused of Having Over-Married.

SUPPOSED WIFE WAS A SUICIDE

Man Who Tricked Logans-
port Girl Into Marriage Hunted For.

Logansport, Ind., Nov. 26.—A warrant for the arrest of Frank R. Adams, a prominent stock broker of Chattanooga, Tenn., on the charge of bigamy which had been sent by the sheriff of this county to be served in Chattanooga, was returned today with the information that Adams could not be found.

The prosecutor had been advised that Adams was at his office in the Adams building in Chattanooga recently.

The warrant was issued on an affidavit by Mrs. Robert Rodabaugh, of this city, whose daughter, Adams' supposed wife, committed suicide in an apartment in Indianapolis several months ago.

Adams went through the marriage ceremony with the young woman here on March 15, 1904.

Mrs. Rodabaugh's affidavit alleges that he was married to Anna P. Rice, at Boston, Mass., Nov. 26, 1885, and that she, the real Mrs. Adams, is now living at Delaware, O. Adams studied music at Boston, and later was a member of the faculty of the school of music of Ohio Wesleyan university at Delaware. The prosecutor of this county has an affidavit that Adams and Miss Rice were married in Boston.

ROOSEVELT PRAISES PEARY AS SECOND GREATEST MAN

Hot Approbation of Polar Deed Comes from the African Jungle.

New York, Nov. 26.—A letter from Theodore Roosevelt was received by Secretary Bridgeman, of the Peary Arctic club, today, replying to the cable announcing that Commander Peary had reached the north pole as follows:

"On Safari, North of Mount Kenia, Sept. 22, 1909. Dear Mr. Bridgeman: Your cable has just been brought me by a native runner here in camp by the Guaso Nyiro. I am writing to Mrs. Peary and to Captain Peary. I have no idea where he is. I am expressly rejoiced at his wonderful triumph and proud beyond measure, as an American, that this—one of the great feats of the age—should have been performed by a fellow countryman of ours. It is the great feat of our generation. We are Capt. Peary's debtors, all of us who belong to civilized mankind.

COMMITTS A MURDER IN THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

Man Evidently Insane is Captured After Fight in Buffalo.

Buffalo, Nov. 26.—Without explanation or warning, Charles Strohl, an employe of a bakery walked into the reading room of the Buffalo public library today, pulled a revolver and shot and instantly killed Franz Stenz.

The murderer rushed out of the building, pursued by several persons and turned into an alley, exchanging shots with his pursuers. One shot striking an officer in the hand. By this time 1,500 persons had gathered. Strohl taking shield behind a brick wall, held the crowd at bay for fifteen minutes. After the police had fired forty or fifty shots they executed a flank movement. Strohl broke for other cover but was finally captured. Two revolvers and over half a box of cartridges were found on him.

While Strohl appeared quite rational after his capture by the police, he became highly excited later and talked incoherently of Stenz and two or three other men. He said Stenz had taken his life blood and there were others he wanted to meet in a duel. His mental condition will be looked into this afternoon.

DIE IN TRACKS TO SAVE LOVED ONES

West Virginia Mother and Daughter Give Battle to a Posse.

FATHER AND THE BOYS GET AWAY

Woman and 16-Year-Old Girl Stand in Doorway
and are Shot Down.

Williamson, W. Va., Nov. 26.—Firing from the doorway of their home on a sheriff's posse to give their father and brothers time to escape, Mrs. Charles Daniels and her sixteen year old daughter were shot to death yesterday near Devon Mingo county by the officers.

The shooting of Mrs. Daniels and her daughter grew out of a family feud between the Christians and Daniels on the border of Kentucky and West Virginia. The Christians lived in Mingo county, W. Va., and the Daniels in Pike county, Kentucky. About three weeks ago George Christian ventured to the Kentucky side and was slain by Jim Daniels. Christian and Daniels were brothers-in-law and had formerly been allies. After the killing of Christian the two families and their friends became involved.

The Christians secured warrants for Jim Daniels and his brother Charles and led a posse of Pike county officers to the home of the Daniels. When the officers approached within a few feet of the house Mrs. Daniels and her daughter opened fire with rifles, one of the posse receiving a bullet in the arm. The Christians opened fire and Mrs. Daniels was shot down in the doorway but the 16 year old daughter stood over her prostrate form and fired upon the posse until she dropped dead across her mother pierced by three bullets. The officers closed in, but by forfeiting their lives, the mother and daughter had so effectively covered the retreat of father and brother that they made their escape.

IS CARRIED BY RAIL OVER ISTHMUS OF PANAMA

Volume of Traffic for the Fiscal Year Had Value of $60,000,000.

Washington, Nov. 26.—The great volume of American merchandise now being carried by rail across the Isthmus of Panama and the Isthmus of Tehuantepec is shown by the fact that the fiscal year 1909, the goods transported amounted in value to more than $60,000,000. The total for this calendar year probably will reach $75,000,000. These are the salient features of a statement issued by the bureau of statistics today.

The Tehuantepec railroad, which crosses the isthmus carrying the freights received from the steamship lines plying between the great ports of the United States and its eastern and western terminals, carried in the first year of its operation—1907—between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 worth of merchandise. In 1908 nearly $39,000,000 worth and in the present year its business in freight will exceed $50,000,000.

The Panama railroad, engaged chiefly in work and traffic growing out of the construction of the Panama canal, carried in 1907 about $12,000,000 worth of merchandise, originating in the United States and bound either for other parts of this country or for foreign countries; in 1908 about $8,500,000, and in 1909 will show about the same total.

DISCUSS COLLEGE "FRAT"

Educators Holding a Convention in Washington.

Washington, Nov. 26.—College fraternities and the need of utilizing such organizations in the work of institutions of learning instead of placing them under a ban were the subject of a general discussion by several hundred delegates to the twenty-third annual convention of the association of colleges and preparatory schools of the middle states and Maryland in this city today. Clarence E. Birdseye, of New York, opened the discussion, in which many took part. There was a general consensus of opinion that college fraternities might become a power for good in college life.

GETS CHANGE OF VENUE.

Boy Bandit Afraid of People of Floyd County.

New Albany, Ind., Nov. 26.—Thomas Jefferson Hall, the boy that killed J. H. Fawcett, cashier of the Merchants National bank and wounded J. K. Woodward, the president, and J. W. Tucker, a chauffeur in his attempt to rob the bank, was arraigned in the circuit court today.

His attorney asked for a change of venue on the plea that because of public prejudice his client could not have a fair trial here, and Judge Utz sent the case to the Harrison county circuit court which convenes at Corydon in February. Hall was taken back to the reformatory at Jeffersonville.

SOME SCENES IN CENTRAL AMERICAN REPUBLIC THAT LONG HAS BEEN TROUBLE BREWERY

THE PRESIDENT'S WIFE

WIRES HAVE BEEN CUT BY ZELAYA

That is the Supposition
Held by the State Department.

CANNOT GET WORD FROM NICARAGUA

Messages to Consul Have Been Intercepted, It is Certain.

Washington, Nov. 26.—The state department is still without information from the vice consul at Managua, and the strong inference is that his dispatches have been intercepted by the Nicaraguan officials under President Zelaya, at least to the extent of cutting the telegraph wires. The department has no doubt that Mr. Caldera has attempted to communicate with it several times during the last week or more.

ZELAYA AS A DESPOT.

New Orleans, Nov. 26.—A cable from Panama says letters written at Managua and smuggled on board a steamer at Corinto, arrived here today, bringing the first authentic news in several days from the capital of Nicaragua. The letters state that President Zelaya has surrounded himself with a strong guard of picked loyalists and the presidential palace is a fortress. All shops are closed at sunset. Crowds that gather on the streets are dispersed with bayonets. The jails are overflowing and many prisoners are being guarded in other buildings.

"It is impossible to communicate with the outside world from Managua by mail or telegraph except by permission of the government and lately that permission has not been given to anyone. Any mail deposited or arriving at Managua postoffice is opened and inspected by the government. No newspapers have been delivered through the Nicaraguan postoffice since the revolution broke out.

"When a message is filed at the telegraph office it is immediately sent to the presidential palace for Zelaya's inspection. Even the message filed by the diplomatic and consular representatives of the foreign governments are held up and none is allowed to be forwarded by the telegraphs until Zelaya gives consent. Many foreigners at Managua are suffering for the necessities of life."

STORY AROUSES COMMENT.

London, Nov. 26.—The publication here of the dispatch from Bluefields, Nicaragua, to the effect that Commander Theisger, of the British cruiser Scylla, had paid an official visit to Provisional President Estrada, excited some comment today. The story lacks official confirmation here.

As a matter of fact the recognition of the Nicaraguan insurgents has never been considered by this government. The Scylla was ordered to the coast of Nicaragua to watch the interests of the British residents.

HORSE AND BUGGY FOUND.

A horse and buggy taken from a hitch rack at Huntestown Tuesday was returned by Sheriff Reichelderfer today to Samuel Meyers, the owner, who lives at Stoner's Mill. The rig had been driven around town by a lot of boys, who put it up at Rippe's barn on Broadway. There were some shoes and dishes and things in the rig when it was taken and part of them were missing.

YOUNG WIFE GIVES UP THE STRUGGLE FOR LIVING

Mrs. Edna George, of Muncie, Commits Suicide in Logansport.

Logansport, Ind., Nov. 26.—Separated from a husband whom she loved, despondent because she lost her position, alone and away from sympathizing friends, Mrs. Edna George, age 20, wife of W. C. George, of Muncie, could see no reason why she should be thankful on Thanksgiving day, and so she drank two ounces of carbolic acid in her room in the Dunn hotel yesterday, while other guests were feasting on turkey and cranberry sauce. The woman died three hours later at St. Joseph's hospital. Three weeks ago the young woman obtained a position as canvasser for a Chicago portrait house. She stated that her name was Miss Edna Johns, concealing the fact that she was married. Last Sunday the canvassing crew came to Logansport and the girl worked steadily until Thanksgiving morning. Then she went to the woman in charge, got into a little argument and Mrs. George was discharged.

Adams was at that time a student at the New England conservatory of music. He was graduated from that institute in 1888. Nothing further is known here concerning either Adams or his wife.

DARING AERONAUTS ARE KILLED IN AUSTRIA

Two German Balloonists in Accident After Long
Flight in Europe.

Berlin, Nov. 26.—Dr. Breckman and Hugo Francke, the two most daring members of the Aero club of Berlin, have been killed through the collapse of their balloon "Kolmar." Their bodies were found today near Fiume, Austria-Hungary. Nearby was their balloon, a huge rent in the envelope. Breckman had been the third person to insure his life with the newly formed company that takes air navigation risks. He was connected with the charity hospital of Berlin and Francke was an architect. Their aerial exploits in the past have attracted much attention. They ascended on Monday from Schmargendorf, a suburb of Berlin.

QUAKERS ARE SOLD.

Rumored That Charles W. Murphy is One of the Purchasers.

John Kling, of the Chicago National league club was mentioned as the probable manager of the Philadelphia team and it is said that "Mike" Donlan will also come here as an outfielder. The deal was closed here this afternoon at a conference at which were present Mr. Murphy and State Senator James P. McNichol and Clarence Wolf and representatives of the estate of the late Senator J. W. Durham, who acquired the controlling interest in the club last February. The terms of the sale were not announced, nor were the names of the syndicate although the name of John T. Brush, owner of the New York club is mentioned as one of the new owners.

SERIOUS CHARGE IS LODGED AGAINST BUTLER

Parents of Pearl Webb
Seek to Have Him
Taken Back.

[Special to The Sentinel.]
Springfield, Ill., Nov. 26.—Requisition has been made by Governor Charles S. Dineen upon the governor of Indiana for the return to Peoria, Ill., of Lester Butler, who is wanted on a warrant charging him with the abduction of Pearl Webb, 17 years old, from her home.

The young people were located in Fort Wayne and the authorities caused their arrest and the parents of the girl immediately instituted proceedings to have him brought back to answer the charge of enticing the girl to leave her home with him.

Both Butler and the girl are in the county jail here on a charge of specific immorality and are being held under bond awaiting the action of the Peoria police. They have been in Fort Wayne a couple of weeks and Butler had been employed as a piano player at the Fairy theater until his arrest on McClelland street, where he and the girl were living as man and wife.

She had secured employment at the General Electric company's plant on Holman street and both said at the time of the arrest that they were saving their money to get married with.

SLAYS HIS FOURTH MAN BEFORE HE IS DROPPED

Florida Bad Man Had a
Penchant for Cutting Throats.

Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 26.—After cutting the throats of Burt Woods, a showman attending a carnival here, and John S. Smith, a companion, Jesse Altman, was shot and killed here this morning. Altman and Smith first quarreled with Woods and Altman slashed Woods' throat, leaving him dead in the street. Smith and Altman made their escape to a suburb, where they also quarreled and Altman drew a razor across Smith's throat. As he fell Smith snatched a revolver from Altman's pocket and fired, the shot proving fatal.

Altman had twice been arrested for murder, his former victims have been negroes.

TO HAVE JUSTICE OR TERM IN JAIL

Gompers Declares He Will Not Accept Leniency in Contempt Suit.

LABOR LEADER IS STILL STANDING PAT

Pronounces Justice Wright
Biased and Unfit to Wear the Ermine.

Washington, Nov. 26.—"I repeat what I have said heretofore, Justice Wright is biased and is unfit to wear the judicial ermine."

In these words Samuel Gompers, the president of the American Federation of Labor, today referred to Associate Justice Wright, of the district supreme court, who sentenced Mr. Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison, all officers of the federation, to varying terms of imprisonment for contempt of the court in the Buksa Stove and Range case.

"If the supreme court of the United States declines to permit the issue to come before it for review or affirm the decision of the lower court, will you ask the president for a pardon?" was asked Mr. Gompers.

"I will not," he replied; nor will I willingly permit my friends to do so. Had I violated any law and been found guilty and sentenced to prison, I might consider the question of seeking executive clemency."

Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Gompers said, would be in Washington for any contingency. A writ of certiorari was to be applied for on Monday, when the supreme court convenes, and if this is denied a writ of habeas corpus will be asked, which, if granted, will insure a hearing by the highest tribunal on the question whether or not the men are being denied any of their constitutional rights.

BANK LOOTER SENT FOR MANY YEARS TO PRISON

Ex-President Allen of the Mineral Point, Wis.,
Bank is Sentenced.

Madison, Wis., Nov. 26.—Phil Allen, Jr., former vice president of the First National bank of Mineral Point, Wis., pleaded guilty today before Judge Sanborn in the United States court to four out of twenty-six counts in the indictment against him and was sentenced to ten years in the federal prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kas., the maximum under the law of any one count.

Allen was charged with embezzling $168,000 from the Mineral Point bank. Allen, who is in his sixty-third year, has been in jail for several weeks, having pleaded not guilty at La Crosse to the indictment rendered against him by the grand jury in that city and has been unable to furnish $50,000 bail. He came in court this morning quite unexpectedly and with bowed head and in an almost inaudible voice pleaded guilty and when asked if he had anything to say he said there was nothing.

Allen was expected to be taken to La Crosse this afternoon to appear before the grand jury and tell all he knows about the bank's cash. It was said he would implicate others in the wrecking of the institution and sensational developments were expected.

NOT MANY THINKING PEOPLE LEFT IN THE LAND

According to The Boutell
Standard They are Now
Mightily Seldom.

Washington, Nov. 26.—"Speaker Cannon never was stronger before the thinking people of the country than he is today."

This statement was made at the white house today by Representative Boutell, of Illinois, who had called to see the president and was asked about the situation in congress.

"I know two men," said Mr. Boutell, "who had entertained feelings of animosity toward Abraham Lincoln, who in after years told me that they would willingly cut off their right arms if they could blot out what they had said against him. It will be the same way with a lot of people who now see fit to say things about the speaker."

CLOSE TO GIRL'S MURDERER.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 26.—Through the statements to a priest the police hope to arrest the man or men who murdered little Zanda in an abandoned building near the Racine street bridge, two weeks ago tonight. The police refused to discuss the subject, fearing that trouble will follow the arrests.

PROMISES TO MEAN MUCH FOR STATE OF INDIANA

Leading Men Will Discuss Question of Industrial Education.

Indianapolis, Nov. 26.—A meeting that promises to mean much for Indiana will be held in the palm room of the Claypool hotel tonight, when manufacturers, leading educators, labor union representatives and others will take up the question of industrial education in this state.

Other states have taken it up and this meeting is of the Indiana branch of the National Society for the Promotion of Industrial Education. Some of the general objects are to provide a means of livelihood for pupils who cannot spend a number of years in school, to keep others in school longer by making their training practical, to provide means of supplying more skilled labor and to enable men already at work to learn more about their trades in a systematic manner.

The idea is not to interfere with but to co-operate with schools as they are ordinarily conducted. H. C. Atkins, president of the E. C. Atkins saw works, will make the introductory remarks.

The collector announced that with these dismissals the general house cleaning in the customs house as the result of the investigation into underweight frauds had been completed. Some individual cases remained, however, on which he might find necessary to take action, the collector added.

Including today's dismissals a total of 33 men have been removed by the collector since the work of re-adjustment of the staff in the customs service began. The men dismissed today were civil service appointees and their successors will be chosen from the civil service list of eligible list.

Farmers' Union Leader Wants a New Political Party.

Washington, Ind., Nov. 26.—John Grady of Gilbertsville, Ky., a national director of the Farmers' Co-operative union, addressed the state organization in convention here today and urged the formation of a new political party as a "defense against the combination that is robbing the farmer."

He added that the farmer was the most unprotected of citizens and "the prey of politicians," and denounced the republican and democratic parties. "The farmers' union has branches in a number of counties of Indiana. The purpose of the convention is to perfect a state organization."

TWO DIE IN EXPLOSION.

Gas Lets Go in a Rochester, N. Y., Boarding House.

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 26.—Mrs. Margaret Smith, aged 35 years, and Mrs. Minnie Wright, aged 50 years, were killed by a gas explosion in a boarding house in North street here today. A jet in their room had leaked all night. The landlady detected gas and traced it to the room. She burst in the door in time to see flames envelop the room. Mrs. Wright, in a dazed condition and half suffocated by the escaping gas had applied a match to the leaking jet. She was found dead on the floor. The body of Mrs. Smith lay on the bed.

Last year's American cotton crop was valued at $633,000,000, and if the value of the seed be added, the aggregate revenue from the crop was very close up to $800,000,000. If the present prices for the staple hold, the value of this year's cotton crop, including the seed, will mount up very near to $1,000,000,000, at any rate to more than $900,000,000.—New York Commercial.

MASTODONTIC MINCE BAKED FOR TAFT'S THANKSGIVING IS MISSING.

TAKING THE TAFT PIE OUT OF THE OVEN

Where is the mastodontic mince pie baked by the pie artists' union of Newark, N. J., to grace President Taft's Thanksgiving board at the white house? The pie has been shipped, but has been miscarried or otherwise delayed in transmission. President Taft has not seen it. He begins to think the pie is a myth. This picture proves it is not. The pie contains sufficient ingredients to make more than fifty ordinary mince pies. There are fifty pounds of peeled Baldwin apples, twenty pounds of seeded California raisins, eighteen pounds of selected currants, thirty-three pounds of sugar, seven pounds of cider, three and a half pounds of citron, three and a half pounds of candied orange peel, one-third of a pound of spices, one and a quarter pound of salt, three pounds of chopped beef and one and a half pounds of fresh beef suet.

PIATT SALOON CASE HEARING TAKEN UP TODAY

Attorney Takes a Broad Ground in Argument for Applicant.

The hearing of the appeal of Martin Platt, who was refused a license to run a saloon in the rolling mills district and against whom the brewers are making a fight, was resumed in the circuit court this afternoon before Attorney Hugh K. Keegan as special judge, and all the evidence was submitted.

Attorney Lee J. Hartzell in opening the argument took the broad ground that because his client had been seen in a state of intoxication occasionally it should not be taken that he is unfit to run a saloon. In support of that he maintained that "most of us" might be barred on the same ground and that if every fellow who had ever been drunk be turned down by the commissioners might few of them would squeeze through with a license.

Ryan Will Probated.

The will of the late Cornelius M. Ryan has been filed in the circuit court and under its provisions his estate is equally divided. It was drawn in 1902, and provides that his real estate and personal property shall be divided and half of it go to each. He also decreed that his business be continued by his son under the supervision of the wife.

His second shot killed the man who was trying to leave the car.

S.S.S. NATURE'S CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

In a disease so painful as Rheumatism, medicines containing opiates and nerve-quieting drugs are often used. Such treatment is dangerous not only because it frequently causes the sufferer to become addicted to the drug habit, but medicines of this nature are always injurious to the system. Rheumatism is a disease of the blood, and its cure depends entirely upon a thorough purification of the circulation. As long as the blood remains saturated with uric acid, an inflammatory condition of the nerves, muscles and tendons of the body will exist, and the pains, aches, soreness, and hot, feverish flesh of Rheumatism will continue. The one safe and sure cure for Rheumatism is S.S.S. It is nature's remedy for this disease, made entirely of the healing, cleansing juices and extracts of roots, herbs and barks from the natural forests. S.S.S. does not contain anything that is in the slightest way injurious to the system. It is absolutely and purely vegetable, and free from opiates or sedatives of any kind. S.S.S. cures Rheumatism by ridding the uric acid from the circulation, it makes the blood pure, rich and healthy so that instead of depositing sharp, uratic impurities into the muscles, nerves, joints and bones, it nourishes every portion of the body with natural, healthful properties. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free to all who write and request it.

CUTS CANCER WITH AN ELECTRICAL CURRENT

Baltimore Surgeon Uses French Method of Killing the Growth.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 26.—For the first time in this country the electrical method of Dr. E. Doyen, the eminent French surgeon, was employed yesterday by Dr. G. Hauer Everhart at St. Luke's hospital when he removed a large cancerous growth from the mouth of John Lookingbill, of Carroll county. The operation also included the removal of growth from other parts of the patient's face. Hot sterilized air, just below the burning point, first was applied to soften the tissues and make the application of the electricity more thorough in its work.

"Fulguration" is the name of the Doyen method of applying electricity to cancerous tissues. It is the most thorough system of treating the disease, as electrical currents can penetrate and kill the growth in a manner not permissible with the surgeon's knife. The current is applied in arranged specially for this kind of work. Instruments are delicate. So delicate are the instruments used that they have to be hermetically sealed to prevent their injury while the room is being fumigated after an operation.

The vaccine used in the case yesterday was supplied by Prof. Doyen from his laboratory in Paris. It was composed of micrococci-neoformens, which is one of the bacteria found in all cancerous growths, and is believed by Doyen to be the cause of the taking on of new growth. The patient will be vaccinated hypodermically with antitoxin for six months following the operation, and at that time the treatment will be dispensed with, provided the growth shows no signs of returning.

Sure Cure is a Success. Three years has been the time limit set by the best surgeons of the world for a recurrence of cancerous growth after removal, and as that time limit has passed with non-appearance of the growths in several operations performed by him, Prof. Doyen has reported to the French Academy of Surgery that he has such absolute confidence in his method of treating the disease that he practically is assured of its absolute success.

NEW GERM NAMED "PROTEUS"

London, Nov. 26.—The Paris correspondent of the Chronicle says Prof. Metchnikoff, of the Pasteur Institute, has discovered the microbe of gastro-enteritis and has named it "Proteus." It was found in immense numbers on the outer skin of fruit and vegetables, in butter, and upon the rind of most cheese. It can exist upon the human skin.

ALCOHOL IN MEDICINES.

Alcohol is the best known preservative of medical compounds, and the average proprietary medicine contains from 15 per cent. to 22 per cent, which is the smallest possible amount to preserve the ingredients, while the average doctor's prescription contains from 25 per cent. to 50 per cent.

Such standard preparations as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound contains but 13 per cent, and they even put the Compound up in tablet form, which the over-scrupulous woman, who objects to alcohol in any degree, may use.

For the last fiscal year the exports of petroleum and its products from the United States amounted to 1,433,867,618 gallons, valued at $101,983,167, as compared with 1,390,037,369 gallons, valued at $101,165,164, for the preceding fiscal year. Last year the oil producers of the United States fighting in the neutral consuming countries of the world, exported oil of the value of $104,000,000. Since oil production began we have exported $4,000,000,000 worth of oil.—Oil World.

A Methodist Minister Recommends Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.

"I have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for several years for diarrhoea. I consider it the best remedy I have ever tried for that trouble. I bought a bottle of it a few days ago from our druggist, Mr. R. R. Brooks. I shall ever be glad to speak a word in its praise when I have the opportunity."—Rev. J. D. Knapp, Pastor M. E. Church, Miles Grove, Pa. Sold by all druggists.

In southern Tunis lies an extensive salt marsh desert called the Shott Jerid, of which the Arabs stand in terror, for many a caravan has been lost in the salt incrustated morass, which, according to De Lesseps, is as much as 1,200 feet deep in places. This region has been crossed for the first time in a small automobile by a woman, Myriam Harry, a well known French novelist.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

In case of a burn or scald what would you do to relieve the pain? Such injuries are liable to occur in any family and everyone should be prepared for them. Chamberlain's Salve applied on a soft cloth will relieve the pain almost instantly, and unless the injury is a very severe one, will cause the parts to heal without leaving a scar. For sale by all druggists.

Convenience

No one thing has done so much to lighten the work of the housewife, making housework a real pleasure, as has electricity. Let us consider a few of the things which have been put before the public during the past few years.

The electric washer does all the hard work incident to washday. It wrings the clothes as well as washes them, and at a cost not to exceed three cents for the average family washing.

The electric iron is a time-saver—saves fully one-third the time usually spent at the ironing—saves countless number of steps; is always hot.

The electric vacuum cleaner removes all the dirt from your carpets and rugs, as well as thoroughly renovating mattresses, pillows and upholstered furniture; does not stir up the dust as do the old methods of cleaning.

The electric heating pad takes the place of the hot water bottle. The turning of a switch attached to the pad regulates the heat. No refilling required—always at the desired temperature.

The sewing machine motor fills a long-felt want; the machine always under the control of the operator; a slight pressure of the foot regulates the speed at which the machine operates.

These appliances are well within the reach of every electric light user, as are a great many more which we have not the room to name here, but can be seen at our display room, or telephone Home phone 2696 and we will send you booklet describing them.

The "social club" as amplified and improved in Indiana "dry" counties has become a gigantic saloon with every man his own bartender. It is nothing less and nothing else.

Ten days more and President Taft will have the joys of congress on his hands. The drear monotony of life in the white house will be relieved by the magnificent opportunity that is going to be offered to the president to go heroically to the rescue of the only Uncle Joe.

A recapitulation of the slaughter of game by two eminent faunal naturalists now heading an African expedition for the benefit of the Smithsonian institution at Washington, indicates that that fine old storehouse of dead and living fossils is going to have a megalithic worth seeing after awhile, even if it will be but a stuffed one.

Advance guard of the insurgents in Washington are "passing" a petition to Speaker Cannon asking him to resign. This may prove a sorry business for the signers. The petition can have no effect at all unless it goes to the speaker, and if it goes to him, he will have that choice list of names. As a work of reference that petition will prove of great value to old Uncle Josh Cannon.

Tomorrow DeKalb county will go to the poles to affirm or deny the wisdom of a "dry" community. For a considerable period DeKalb county has been largely dry and wholly so for several months, under operation of the remonstrance law. Now it is proposed to test sentiment under the option law and tie the county irrevocably to the no-saloon proposition for at least two years. The campaign has been very strenuous and in some respects bitter. The general expectation is that DeKalb county will not reverse herself on the temperance question, but will affirm conditions as they are.

Down in Indianapolis they are beginning to figure definitely upon such a contingency as the disqualification of Mayor-elect Shank to hold the office to which he was elected. The grand jury is pressing an inquiry into charges that Shank procured support for his candidacy by promises of office, a clean-cut violation of the statutes, if true. It has been given as the opinion of one lawyer that in the event that Shank is disqualified the present incumbent of the office, Mayor Charles A. Bookwalter, will hold on until the next municipal election, as provided by the statutes. There would be something tolerably fleshy in that for Colonel Bookwalter, who already has served one term in the mayor's office and is just completing his second.

Chicago is represented by a Washington correspondent of the Tribune as being asleep to her harbor needs and wholly unmindful of her decadence as a lake port. Too bad for Chicago, who says "I will," but sometimes won't. Her lethargy is unaccountable. A good stiff injection of Michigan and Erie canal tonic would help Chicago amazingly in her diseased place. Nothing yet proposed will be found half so good for that decadent feeling as means to make the water route the short cut to the east. New York has made much livelier response to the waterway proposal than Chicago. The great project was almost made to order for Chicago and yet that bounding and almost boundless metropolis is letting Fort Wayne do most of the work.

It is made to appear with some impressiveness that mercenary considerations, coupled with some blundering, had much to do with failure to rescue living men from the St. Paul mine at Cherry. It has been quite well established that for a considerable period a large part of the men imprisoned in the mine survived the explosion. Indeed, twenty were removed alive after having been for one week in the mine. It is no matter of wonder that miners at Cherry feel very bitter toward the company. They believe there was a chance to rescue large numbers of the entombed men if all measures and reasonable chances in such an exigency had been taken. The state of Illinois will perform an act of great humanity if it will sink a probe far into this Cherry disaster. Nothing that may now be done can "back to its mansion call the fleeting breath," but there are many other mines into which countless other miners must go with their lives in their hands. The Cherry disaster may be repeated anywhere and be attended with similar circumstances. The man who digs is entitled to his chance, and at the very best it is not a good one. Such as it is, however, he should not be robbed by carelessness or greed of the least part of it.

GOOD-BYE TO "SAG HARBOR."

Special Matinee Performance Tomorrow of "Charley's Aunt."

This evening Our Own Stock company will be seen at the Majestic in its final performance of "Sag Harbor." This last dramatic work of the late James A. Hearne deserves about all the handsome things that have been said of it, for it is clever, pretty and wholesome. Captain Dan Marble and his friends of the little New England seacoast village seem like real people; whose life story is an engaging one, and there is a quaint charm and a homely atmosphere throughout the play that is thoroughly enjoyable.

"Charley's Aunt" Tomorrow. The big revival of "Charley's Aunt," the farewell offering of Our Own Stock company before it disbands forever, will start its brief run with a special matinee performance tomorrow. Starting today and for the balance of the week, Gennaro's great Venetian band will make a complete change of program. The band is one of the best that has ever appeared in this city and has been delighting packed houses all week. This is a real big city feature and is sure to please.

PRISONERS TUNNEL TO LIBERTY

Bad Lot Escape From Ancient Pen in Old Mexico.

Gamboa, Oaxaca, Mexico, Nov. 26.—It was discovered today that twenty-six prisoners in the penitentiary at Tehuantepec, many of them murderers, had gained their liberty yesterday by digging beneath the walls of the ancient structure. The prison was built in 1547 and the tunneling of the prisoners caused the crumbling walls to fall. It was built originally for a church and monastery, but during the church and state war it was turned into a garrison and then into a prison.

REBUILDING THE BODY

That Is the Constant Business of the Blood.

And That Is Why a Blood-Building Tonic Will Make the Body Well and Keep It So.

Pure, red blood has well been called the vital principle of life for upon it the tissues of the body live. It goes to practically every part of the body, carrying nourishment and oxygen, taking up the wastes and so changing them that they can be cast out of the system. As our every act results in the breaking down of some of the tissues and the formation of waste materials, the body is in a constant state of change. To maintain health, strength, and life, the blood must be pure in order to replace these wastes with plenty of fresh nourishment and to rid the body of its waste material.

Men and women who are run down, will find Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the best tonic for their condition because these pills are a certain blood-builder and purifier. They enable the body to meet the unusual demands of the body and give perfect health.

Mr. Frank Lill, of No. 411 South Spring street, Belleville, Ill., who is a brakeman on the Illinois Central Railroad, tells of his cure by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, as follows:

"Some years ago I became run down as a result of irregular hours and exposure. I was sick a year or more. I had severe pains across the small of my back and sometimes there would be sharp, shooting pains in my limbs. This greatly hindered me in my work. I couldn't sleep well and felt miserable."

"I tried several kinds of medicine but did not get any relief. Then I began using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and soon began to feel better. I took several boxes of the pills and was entirely cured. I have been able to work since and have had no occasion to use medicine."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills should be used in all diseases caused by thin or impure blood, as anemia, rheumatism, stomach trouble, after-effects of the grip and fevers, neuralgia, sick headaches and weakness common to women.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent postpaid, on receipt of price, 50 cents for box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

IN THE CITY'S CHURCHES

TWENTY-THIRD ANNUAL MEETING OF C. E. UNION

Gathering of Clergymen and Lay Delegates at Plymouth Church.

The twenty-third annual convention of the Fort Wayne District Christian Endeavor union will close this evening after four important sessions. The initial one of which took place Thanksgiving evening. The meet is in progress at Plymouth Congregational church and in the Sunday school room where the sessions are held a representative gathering of clergymen and lay delegates are in attendance. While the number of delegates is not as large as anticipated considerable interest has been manifested in the work from the opening of the convention.

Morning Session. The second session of the convention was auspiciously opened at 6:30 o'clock this morning with a sunrise prayer service or morning watch conducted by Rev. T. B. Terhune, of Huntington. Two hours later the song service and devotional was followed by reports of district officers. At 9 o'clock Miss Anna Chaffin, representing the Laconia department of the C. E. union, spoke on "Personal Work." Miss Della Dexter, in favor of the social side of the organization gave a clever little talk on "Sweet Oil." Representing the prayer meeting department, Miss Edith Livingston spoke on the topic, "A Chance for Expression." The missionary department found a valuable exponent in Miss Corn D. Altman, whose effort was entitled "Obedience." Miss Florence E. Latham, of Indianapolis, state field secretary of the Endeavorers presented some "Important Items."

The principal address of the morning session was given by Rev. H. B. Diefenbach, of Bluffton. His topic was "The Church Our Legacy." The speaker opened his discourse by asking the question "What is the church?" In the development of the answer to this question he stated that "the church is the kingdom of Christ upon earth, the bride of Christ, the spiritual abiding place in this life for mankind." He stated that it was not a building, not a congregation, not a human institution but one that is divine. The speaker then stated that the church is "a corporation, in that it controls large interests; a public institution, for it is protected by legislation; a capitalist, handling immense amounts of money; an employer, a relief organization; a university, for it educates the generation; it is a spiritual reformer; it is a philanthropic association; an organized beneficiary. It has blazed the way," continued the speaker, "for everything good in civilization. This then is our legacy. It comes to us without cost, effort or merit on our part."

The desire for a heritage was strongly emphasized, the minister pointing out the value of a heritage, the heritage of a good character, of honor and righteousness. He showed how good and evil traits were inherited and cited as an example a girl in New York, whose 1,200 degenerate descendants have cost that city the sum of $1,308,000. "This might have been all avoided," said the speaker, "if in the beginning some one had expended a few dollars to lift up the degenerate one and used the proper influence for her reformation. The obligation of our inheritance, spiritual and financial, is to relieve the needy and to advance the kingdom of God here upon the earth."

It was cited that first, the heritage that is ours should be appreciated; secondly, that the heritage should be properly used and finally that we should pass it on better than we have received it. "What is the problem of this heritage?" asked the speaker. Social conditions were then reviewed at length. In 1800 the United States had six cities of 5,000 population, today it has 600 cities of that population. It was shown that homes were required for the needy, that social conditions must be improved and that such could be accomplished through the efforts of those who possess the legacy of faith.

Following Rev. H. B. Diefenbach's address a missionary meeting was conducted by Mrs. Charles Mize, of Bethel Evangelical church.

Afternoon Session.

With Miss May Lansdown, of this city, district junior superintendent, and Miss Lillian E. Hayes, of Dunreith, Ind., state junior superintendent, as leaders, the afternoon's session opened at 1:30 with a conference on the subject, "How to Organize and Conduct a Junior or Intermediate Society."

At the same hour Miss Florence E. Latham conducted a conference for the officers of the organization, speaking on "How to Run a Society." At 2 o'clock a song service was held, after which Rev. W. E. Hunter, of Oshtemo, led the devotional.

Rev. J. Thomas W. Lucky, of Andrews, gave the special address for the session and was heard with interest and appreciation. His topic was "The Rights of the Child." He prefaced his efforts by saying, "I would like to persuade you that the child has rights that must not be ignored, that the church, the society, as well as the Christian civilization, depend on this. This is not a new point, but by virtue of our present distress, one to be re-emphasized. The house wife sees her gains in the flaming advertisements of the special sale of wares; the business man sees an opportunity of investment in the town lot, or mortgage farm, or factory; the doctor sees a patient or the lawyer a client in the disturbed face of the stander-by, but the aroused Christian soul must see in the face and form of every child the possibility of a new, and mighty integer for the Temple of the Living God."

"A watchword is upon us, 'The Rights of the Child,' and if it is not already, then it must be speedily charged with spiritual power. That the church and the civilization of tomorrow depends on the rights of the child being safeguarded today, is also a truth with perhaps that of the withered hand, but the Christ says, 'stretch it forth and the healing is sure.'"

"So," said Rev. Lucky, "I am pleading for an enlarged vision. But we must see and feel the force of what we see before we can do. And so I am pleading for what is biblical, Christly. If we are loyal to Christ, if we are true to the interests of his kingdom, if we are careful to do his will, then, whether we work at home or abroad, the focal light of all missionary enthusiasm must glow there, Home or foreign, county or state, we must begin at the beginning. First things first, and Jesus says, 'The Child First.'"

The safe-guarding of the child was a point strongly emphasized, the necessity of inculcating in the hearts of little ones the beauties of religion, the various agencies that may be employed in so doing; the work of the Junior Christian Endeavor society, were all points thoughtfully portrayed and developed by the speaker.

From 3 to 4 o'clock the junior rally was conducted by Miss Lansdown, assisted by Miss Hayes, and an attractive program was given. A reunion and discussion among the delegates closed the session.

Closing of Convention.

The last session of the convention will take place this evening. The program will open with a special supper for the Christian Endeavorers at 6:30 o'clock at Grace Reformed church. Later the local and visiting delegates and members will assemble at Plymouth church, where an organ recital will be given by John B. Archer. Other features of the program will be as follows:

The opening of the convention Thursday evening was the occasion of an immense crowd at Plymouth church and several hundred people were in attendance. Besides the organ recital given by John B. Archer, a half hour musical program was enjoyed.

The soloists were Miss May Spencer and Miss Maude Roberts.

Rev. C. O. Shirey, pastor of Bethany Presbyterian church, delivered the address of the evening. His subject was "The Christian a Citizen," and delighted the large audience with his eloquent and forceful development of his theme. Miss Isabelle Rogier, of RECORD-BREAKING CROWDS.

St. Peter's Fall Festival Proves a Great Success.

The closing day of the fourth annual fall festival of St. Peter's Catholic church broke all records of similar affairs given by the local congregation. Yesterday afternoon and all evening people thronged the school hall, patronizing the various booths and stands and enjoying a social reunion with friends. The festival workers, both men and women, were kept busy until mid-night, as the festival closed with the biggest event of all, the grand distribution of prizes at the eleventh hour. Rev. Charles Thiele, rector of St. Peter's, his capable young assistant, Rev. Michael Alchinger, and their efficient committee, made every effort for the entertainment of the visitors and are highly gratified with the results of the four nights' festivity.

Probably two of the best patronized attractions were the stein booth and the doll booth. Crowds at both were enthusiastic and the young men and women in charge were kept on the alert supplying the demands of their customers. With returns still to be made it cannot be estimated at this time as to the financial results of the festival, but indications are that it will be in excess of former years.

A long table occupied the center of the diningroom at which the guests were seated. Tomorrow evening at the Y. W. C. A. "gym" a meeting of Miss Gertrude Wilding's gymnasium class will be held and a full attendance of members is desired.

There was a very pleasant family gathering yesterday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Martin, of 1433 Broadway, it being the 45th anniversary of their wedding day. A delicious supper was served and the evening was spent in playing games. Those who joined in the celebration were Messrs. and Mesdames Roy McKinley, of Garrett; George Caid, Ed Bevelhimer, Louis Martin, William Martin, Christ Martin, Misses Mildred and Helen Bevelhimer, Gladys, Luella and Esther Martin, Clorus McKinley, Messrs. William Hyson, of Virginia, Frank and Edwin Martin and Ralph Bevelhimer.

Mrs. William Brauer, of East Washington street, gave a 6 o'clock dinner last evening in compliment to the graduating nurses of the Lutheran hospital. The rooms were beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums and after the dinner a flower contest offered amusement for the guests. Prizes were won by Miss Dennyinger and Miss Brautz.

Yesterday will long be remembered by Mr. James S. Erwin, of West Third street, as one of the brightest Thanksgiving days of his life. It has been over twenty years since his birthday came on Thanksgiving day and a number of his friends arranged a surprise for him. Mr. and Mrs. Erwin were taken for an automobile ride and while they were away their house was invaded and preparations made for an elaborate celebration. The guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Brosius, Mr. and Mrs. William Brosius, Mr. and Mrs. D. Ruby, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Erwin, Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Erwin, Mrs. Emmet Ambler, Mrs. Thomas Gullivan, Mrs. L. E. Wilkinson, Miss Mary Erwin, Miss Martha Wehrs, Andrew Brosius, W. O. Sessions.

DRAWERS WITHOUT SEAMS

By MRS. JANE FORD.

577
6 SIZES 22 TO 32 WAIST

What woman will not appreciate a pattern for drawers that is without seams? In addition to this advantage the design can be easily and quickly made, for the only sewing necessary to complete the circular piece of material so it will be ready for wear is to finish the edges with a narrow hem. Second, to under face the round waist line with five-eighths of an inch of casing, for which purpose a bias strip of the material should be used. Third, to apply the trimming to the lower edges. Fourth, to work two button holes at the lower corners of the back edges, and on the opposite corners at the front sew two small flat pearl buttons.

This method of effecting a closing takes the place of seams and not only simplifies the making, but also the laundering, as the garment may be opened flat, as pictured.

The drawers lap at the back only enough to give a neat closing. They hang at the lower edge with sufficient fullness to have the appearance of an exceptionally neat knee length undershirt and make it entirely possible to do away with a short petticoat.

The lack of fullness over the hips and the perfect fit make this model a favorite, particularly with stout women.

The materials ordinarily used for developing for drawers that is without seams, cambric, nainsook and fine long cloth, all of which may be secured in a comparatively fine quality for from fifteen to twenty-five cents a yard. To make these drawers in the medium sizes only two yards of goods thirty-six inches wide will be needed and four and one-quarter yards of edging.

The pattern is cut in six sizes that run from twenty-two to thirty-two inches waist measure.

FRIARS KEPT FIGHT ON HUNTINGTON GROUND

Neither Side Scored in Thanksgiving Foot Ball Game.

On paper the Huntington football team has a bit the best of the Friars club but the Lime City eleven was kept on the defensive all through the fifty minutes of play yesterday to hold the advantage of one game won on its home lot in the first meeting of the clubs. Neither side scored in the Thanksgiving game here but what advantage there was in the battle went to the Friars.

From the kickoff Fort Wayne had the ball most of the time and all of the club's new open plays, a few trick plays and some old style football were used in an effort to get through Huntington's line but there was nothing doing and the husky warriors from the Lime City put up a stone-wall defense that Fort Wayne could not get through.

With weather conditions that could not have been better even if the mauling had been left to the Fort Wayne club there was a paid attendance of more than a thousand and an actual attendance of nearly eleven hundred and there was some talk of a home eleven with a bit of enthusiasm now and then from the visitors.

The visitors gained an advantage which indicated the presence of a small band of Huntington rosters.

Charles Pask was taken out of the game near the close of the second half with a black eye and a number of bruises. It was believed that he had been seriously hurt and a taxi and an ambulance were rushed to the park, but at the club rooms he was moved and will not be much worse off for his experience.

Following the game a movement was started toward making football a fixture next fall. It was suggested that a row of bleachers be erected along the left field fence which would keep the crowd of the field and from trampling the baseball diamond. It will be put up to Owner Claude H. Varnell, but it will be attempted along that line this fall as the season is closed. The line-up:

JEFFRIES SAYS JOHNSON WILL NOT GET UP IF HE HITS HIM WHERE KETCHEL DID.

Only Blow That Bothered Him Was Smash on the Nose.

CONDITION GOOD; WILL BE BETTER

Says He Will Land a Few Blows on the Ribs of the Black Man.

By ED. COLE.

"Drop the curtain and let it stay down," Jim Jeffries said at the Plaza theater in New York a few nights ago. The audience continued to applaud, that it might take a last peep at the man once a heavyweight champion, who is unquestionably one of the greatest fighters who ever put foot into a shoe.

"The ten times I have been out boxing," said he, as he walked into the wings. The audience continued to clap and shout for a speech until the big fellow had to step out to the footlights again and express his gratitude for the goodwill of the audience, and the appreciation they showed at his determination to try to uphold the championship of the world and tug it on a white man.

After he was through talking the crowd arose and with one accord seemed to be assured that he would fill the bill, judging from the unanimous verdict—"and you are the lad to do it."

Prior to this little episode Jeffries had gone through a course of exercises with his partner and manager, "Sam" Berger. He had tossed the medicine ball, pulled on an exercising machine, showed his ability to do a contortion act by bending backward over a chair until his head touched the floor, and then he donned the gloves and for three fast rounds of about one minute each he so exhausted Berger that the latter was glad to back into the wings and spread out on a handy trunk.

Talk about Jeffries ever getting into condition again after being so long out of the ring; those who will take the trouble to see through his stage exercises will be at once convinced that he is as well as good as he ever was in his life, or at least can be trained into the condition he has shown.

After boxing with Berger he stepped back into the wings, and, donning a heavy dressing gown, jumped around skipping the rope and side stepping as if with a bat. He had just been a preliminary gallop to loosen up his muscles.

"Gosh, you are in good shape," said his friend "Bob" Vernon.

"In good shape?" replied Jeffries. "Why, I am not a quarter fit. I haven't done any work for three months and yesterday. In about a month's time I will show you what a man in condition looks like. But Berger is in worse shape than I am, and I am not a quarter fit when he was boxing. He does not feel me fast enough in the clinches and mix-ups. We won't be working well until a week or two."

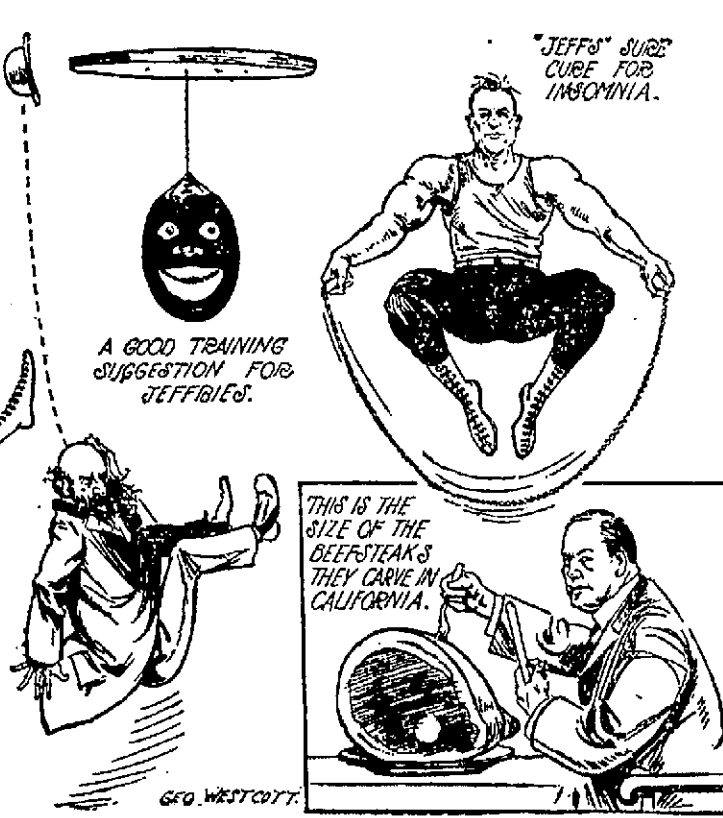

"Jack" Gleason asked Jeffries what he thought of the pictures of the Johnson-Ketchel fight.

"I don't want to make any comment," replied the champion. "But I can say that Johnson will have to put up with Ketchel. He had every advantage over the little fellow—weight, height, reach and all else—and yet when he did start fighting the little fellow had strength enough to touch him in the twelfth round. He must have been doing it for some time to get up, and he was groggy when he got on his feet. I think I ever hit him in the same spot. He could hardly get on his feet again; and if Ketchel can hit him there seems no reason why I can't do it."

"Johnson seems to have a jabbing left hand that is dangerous when it lands," suggested one of the stage hands who was listening, open mouthed, to Jeffries' conversation.

"The pictures did imitate that he had put all kinds of fresco work on Ketchel," answered "Jim." "But Ketchel was so much shorter in the reach that he could not return with anything. Mr. Johnson will find I am there with a jab or two myself, and while he is putting his left on to me I shall very likely be playing a game with his right with my left, unless he is well protected, and if he is not careful I might whip one over the top with my left that will be almost cruel if it lands where I aim. That is one thing I pride myself on, my good eyesight. When I go duck shooting I would just as soon take a rifle as a shotgun. I might not get quite as many, but it is a sure thing."

The morning following the fight with Jeffries was walking with Fitzsimmons at Bath Beach. In course of conversation Fitzsimmons gave me a walloper on it that put it out of business. Recently I have had it operated on and I have to go to the surgeon every other day to get it carved up. When I get well I shall have no trouble at all."

In speaking of his generalship in the ring never was there a better example than he displayed when he fought Fitzsimmons at Coney Island. "Bob" had punched him hard enough and often enough to knock out ten men, but his blows were shaken off as easy as a dog shakes water off a thick coat. In the tenth round Fitzsimmons was tiring fast. Jeffries moved around clever and kept Fitz chasing around the ring. And Jeffries would hit him with a left hand in that round, but he was content to wait. Early in the eleventh he stood off "Bob's" usual four rushing rush for about a minute and then he whipped one under "Fitz's" ribs that told a horrible tale. "Bob" dropped his hands and partially doubled up. Jeffries did not rush into him, as some fighters would have done. He stood away for a second or two to let his man straighten up, and as soon as he did so he put a quick right punch to his jaw and "Fitz" fell like a wet rag.

When men like the late "Al" Smith complimented Jeffries on his ring generalship it meant more than the ordinary critic talking. Smith was a man who knew what he was talking about. Fitzsimmons also spoke very decidedly on "Jeff's" ability to be taught and live up to his teachings.

NOTRE DAME ELEVEN AND MARQUETTE IN TIE

Hard Struggle Closed Without Score for Either Team.

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 26.—In one of the hardest but most evenly played games of football seen in the west this year, Notre Dame and Marquette battled on Marquette field yesterday and when the final whistle blew, when it was so dark that it was hard to distinguish the players, the score stood 0 to 0.

Seldom have two teams struggled so bitterly for the honor and glory of their schools as these two eleven did yesterday. Every man on each team exhausted every ounce of physical energy he possessed, and as the game drew to a close with neither having a decided advantage, some of the players, battered and bruised, were forced to retire from the combat.

Not one of the men who started the battle came out without some marks to show he had been in a grueling struggle. Hard, low, deadly tackling, accurate passing, perfect interference, and a great teamwork characterized the play of both teams. Every play in the categories of the game was called into commission in the hope of winning the verdict. Both generals tried the forward pass and onside kick innumerable times, but on the whole the old line rushes and end runs were productive of biggest gains.

Ball Seesaws Back and Forth.

It would be mighty hard to say which had the better of this contest. The ball seemed from one's territory to the other's and back again, and they kept the ropes of both teams frantically employed their favorites to make a score of some kind that they might have more reason for their cheering and rooting.

The game was prolific of penalties because the eagle eye of Empire Everts Wrenn, who never hesitated to call a foul. Marquette suffered more from Wrenn's decisions than Notre Dame, but none of these setbacks was caused by dirty playing. Most of the penalties were levied for holding and offside, with an occasional setback for an incomplete forward pass. The players of both eleven took Wrenn's decisions gracefully and not once was there a wrangle over a play.

WIGGAM LOSES THEN MAKES KICK ON REFEREE

Murbarger Gave Him Another Chance and Threw Him Again.

A crowd of 250 people saw Sam Murbarger throw Howard Wiggam, of Danville, Ill., at Saengerbund hall last night in straight falls, winning the wrestling match carded as the top liner of the athletic bill in twenty-one and fourteen-minute goes, and then saw the Danville man pounce on the mat in half a minute after he had made the statement that he had gotten a bad deal from the referee.

There was some high-grade wrestling in the main event and not a little roughing. Wiggam was brought here to give Murbarger a cleaning and he tried hard to make good. After he had protested the second fall and was obliged, though with much reluctance, to go back to the mat with the Fort Wayne man, Wiggam showed a loss of nerve. Murbarger hit him in terrific fashion and in thirty seconds had the Danville man pinned helplessly with a full Nelson. Murbarger had declared he would go the final bout to a finish and asked the crowd to referee the contest. His gameness and disposition to be entirely fair to his opponent won heavy approval.

Dave Buttermore, who is now a regular Home Telephone company lineman here, put one of the preliminaries with Willie Dawson, of Toledo, and got both falls, taking the first in 7:10 and the second in 9:10.

Harry Kellmeier, who has appeared many of the local wrestling exhibitions here, took on Jerry McConkey, of Toledo, and wrestled him to a draw. Holtzhauser and Dorden gave a three-round sparring match and a battle royal between half a dozen negroes along with another sparring exhibition between a couple of colored lads filled out the bill.

YARNS ABOUT BASE BALL PLAYERS.

Toledo, O., Nov. 14.—There was a bunch of big and little leaguers gathered together the other afternoon and, as usual, they talked shop. Some of the late world's best players brought forward remarks about the Chicago Cubs and their wonderful little second-sacker, Johnny Evers.

One of the National League athletes told of a funny incident that occurred in a game at Cincinnati during the past season, in which Evers, Heinie Zimmerman and Johnny Daboe, recently sold to Buffalo by the Reds, were mixed.

Evers did not join the Cubs until long after the season was under way and Zimmerman held down his job on the second cushion. The day that Evers went to his old station, Daboe was sent to the first corner to do a coaching stunt.

The pitcher saw Evers out there, and not knowing who he was, yelled out in a surprised voice, "Hey, there, you! What's the matter with Zimmerman? Is he sick?"

And they say that Evers, who is a "vamp" of the most vibrant type, wanted to fight, he was so indignant.

This story drew the conversation on to Zimmerman, and somebody declared he was one of the best fighting ball players in the National League.

The yarn goes that Zimmerman got into an argument with several of the Chicago players last year and the result was that a series of club house battles was started.

Zimmerman first took Frank Chance, and although the manager is a whole lot bigger than Evers, the latter gave him a choice beating. Then he went down the line, and the story-teller declared in all good faith that Zimmerman whipped every Cub who thought he had any walloping ability.

Nothing made the Detroit team a success but the fact that Jennings made his players believe that they were better than they thought they were.

The Detroit team with virtually the same lineup that has won three consecutive pennants never cut much of a figure in this league before Jennings became the manager. When Hughie took hold the first thing he did was to instill into his players the belief that they were all stars, but that they had been handicapped by the fact that they had lost confidence in themselves.

The result was that the team won the pennant, and once convinced of their own ability, there was no way of stopping them.

"I have heard Jennings criticized, but don't get away from the fact that he has accomplished wonders. He made ball players out of a lot of men who were about ready to quit the game because of lack of confidence."

Jennings has the ability to handle men. He knows that it would be a detriment to his team to attempt to correct Cobb. He does not criticize him if he runs wild on bases, for he knows that Cobb's spirit would be broken if he called him down.

There are other players on his team that he finds he has to drive, and he does it, and it is the fact that he knows the disposition of every man on his team that has enabled him to make a winner out of a mediocre ball team."

THE NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

"WET" TOWN TIRED OF MANY DRUNKS

Not a Day Passes in Hartford City Without Drunks Being Arrested and Jailed.

Hartford City, Ind., Nov. 26.—It is quite probable that unless there is a decided decrease in the number of drunken men on the streets noted in a short time the officers will be compelled by public sentiment, if nothing else, to make an investigation to learn which saloon or saloons dispense liquor to partly intoxicated men and men whose money is needed by their families more than by the liquor dealers.

A local newspaper which took the side of the saloons during the recent anti-saloon fight as being preferable to the "bootleggers" and "blind tigers," which are claimed to follow the closing of the legalized drinking places, printed a scathing editorial yesterday in which the saloon men responsible for the present state of affairs are reminded of their duty in no uncertain manner. The anti-saloon people claim the only remedy is to oust the saloons bodily and, unless conditions become more bearable in a short time, no doubt many voters who have favored the saloons will vote against them when the time comes.

Not a day passes without two or three drunks being thrown into jail or ordered out of town, while the number of men in lesser degree of drunkenness who escape the officers is almost uncountable. It is no uncommon sight to see an intoxicated man staggering through the main streets of the city and it is a source of much wonderment how so many escape arrest.

WAS NOT BLIND TIGER.

Bluffton, Nov. 26.—John Chambers was acquitted in the circuit court on the charge of selling liquor without a license. The acquittal came as a surprise. One of the pieces of evidence which had the most bearing on the case was the argument in reference to the whisky. The indictment read half a pint for twenty-five cents, while Gene Kyle, the principal witness, said that he had bought a pint for fifty cents. The attorneys for the defense made as much out of this conflict as possible. There is still another case against Chambers.

When The Stomach Stops

Working Properly, Because There is Wind in It, Use Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to Set It Going Again.

A TRIAL BOX FREE.

THE DOCTORS call it flatulency, but unprofessional folks know it as "wind on the stomach," and a most distressing state of things it is. It is a serious condition of this great motor organ. Always annoying and painful in the extreme, at times often leading to bad and fatal results. The stomach embarrassed and hampered with wind, cannot take care of its food properly and indigestion follows, and this has a train of appalling to enumerate. The entire system is implicated—made an active or passive factor in this trouble and life soon becomes a questionable boon.

ALL THIS IS EXPLAINED in doctor books; how undigested food causes gases by fermentation and fermentation in which process some essential fluids are destroyed—burnt up—wasted by chemical action, followed by defective nutrition and the distribution through the alimentary tract of chemically wrong elements and as a consequence the stomach and entire system is starved. Plenty of food, you see, but spoilt in preparation and worse than worthless.

A DERANGED STOMACH is the epitome of evil; nothing too bad to emanate from it, but the gas it generates is probably its worst primary effect and the only way to do away with this is to remove the cause. STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS go to the root of this trouble. They attack the gas making foods and render them harmless. Flatulency or wind on the stomach simply cannot exist where these powerful and wonderful working little tablets are in evidence.

THEY WERE MADE for this very purpose to attack gas making foods and convert them into proper nutriment. This is their province and office. A whole book could be written about them and then not all told that might be told with profit to sufferers from this painful disease, dyspepsia. It would mention the years of patient and expensive experiment in effort to arrive at this result—of failure innumerable and at last success. It would make mention of the different stomach correctives that enter into this tablet and make it faithfully represent all.

STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS are not alone intended for the sick, but well folks as well; for the person who craves hearty foods and wants to eat heartily and run no risk of bad effects, they act like a charm and make eating and digestion a delight and pleasure. They keep the stomach active and energetic and able and willing to do extra work without special labor or effort. Don't forget this. Well people are often neglected, but the STUART DYSPEPSIA TABLETS have them in mind.

A FREE TRIAL PACKAGE will be sent any one who wants to know just what they are, how they look and taste, before beginning treatment with them. After this go to the drug store for them; everywhere here or at home, they are 50 cents a box and by getting them at home you will save time and postage. Your doctor will prescribe them; they say there are 40,000 doctors using them, but when you know what is the matter of yourself, why go to the expense of a prescription? For free trial package address F. A. Stuart, Co., 150 Stuart Building, Marshall, Michigan.

P. S. Better send today for samples of the tablet. You will get quite a box of them.

BODY IDENTIFIED AS NOAH BANTER'S

Mystery Regarding Drowned Man in Lick Creek is Cleared Up, Possibly Beyond Doubt.

Hartford City, Ind., Nov. 26.—It is now settled almost beyond a doubt that the body pulled from Lick creek last Sunday was that of Noah Banter, who disappeared from his home north of Dundee on Oct. 15.

His granddaughter, Mrs. Sylvia Carroll, who lives near Dundee, in Wells county, was here and her description of her grandfather tallies exactly with that of the dead man taken from the creek. Another identification is that given by the clerks at a local clothing store, where Banter purchased some wearing apparel.

Mrs. Carroll stated that her grandfather was in the habit of carrying a bottle of alcohol and water and a plug of tobacco with him, and these articles were found in the pockets of the clothing of the corpse.

Mr. Banter had been working for different farmers in the neighborhood of Dundee, and as he was frequently absent from home for several days at a time his prolonged absence caused no uneasiness, and it was only after reading the description of the drowned man that relatives began to fear for his safety.

It is planned to exhume the body from the grave in which it was placed at the Williams cemetery and remove it to the Bosley cemetery, in Washington township.

About twenty-two years ago he moved to Chicago and for about twenty years was engaged as a traveling salesman.

Bluffton, Ind., Nov. 26.—A suit for divorce has been filed in the circuit court by Mrs. Della Stanton, in which she seeks a legal separation from Sherman G. Stanton, a former Bluffton saloonkeeper, who is now reported to be living in Illinois. The complaint sets out that the couple were married on December 24, 1892, and that they lived together as husband and wife until January 1, 1908, since which time the husband has not lived with his family. Mrs. Stanton alleges abandonment and also failure to provide, and she further charges her husband with infidelity.

BANK GIVEN JUDGMENT.

Van Wert, O., Nov. 26.—In the case of the Old National bank of Fort Wayne against Alvin D. Pettit on a note the jury, by order of the court, returned a verdict of $2,114.87 for the plaintiff. Another question raised after the finding of the jury, was whether or not the property securing the note described in the mortgage, should be held liable under the mortgage. This question of whether there shall be an order of foreclosure was submitted to the court on brief, and a decision will be rendered later.

GARRETT PRIEST REPORTED BETTER

Father August Young, of the Catholic Church, Rallying from His Critical Illness.

Garrett, Ind., Nov. 26.—Inquiry at the Sacred Heart hospital at noon today concerning the condition of Rev. Father August Young, who has been critically ill during the last few days, brought the answer that he was considerably better.

Father Young is suffering from an affection of the heart. A week ago he was taken ill and removed from his residence to the hospital. On Wednesday his condition was alarming and it was thought that he was near to death's door. Thursday he took a turn for the better and strong hopes are entertained of his recovery.

Father Young is the priest at the St. Peter's and St. Paul's church in this city. He has been the resident priest here for a third of a century, coming to Garrett when it was first settled by the church here and also the entire community. Garrett owes much of her progress to his unselfish labors in its behalf. The building of the Sacred Heart hospital here is due to his efforts. He is the friend of Protestants and Catholics alike and everybody loves him.

Your Money Back if You are Not Satisfied with the Medicine We Recommend

We are so positive that our remedy will permanently relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine at our expense should it fail to produce satisfactory results.

It is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Laxatives or cathartics do much harm. They cause a reaction, irritate and weaken the bowels and tend to make constipation more chronic. Besides, their use becomes a habit that is dangerous.

Constipation is caused by a weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or descending colon. To expect permanent relief you must therefore tone up and strengthen these organs and restore them to healthier activity.

The discovery of the active principle of our remedy involved the labor of the world's greatest research chemists. As an active agent it possesses the valuable qualities of the best known intestinal tonics as well as being particularly pleasant and prompt in its results.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies on our recommendation. They are exceedingly pleasant to take, being eaten like candy, and are ideal for children, delicate persons and old folks, as well as for the robust. They act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels. They apparently have a neutral action on other associate organs or glands. They do not purge, cause excessive looseness nor create any inconvenience whatever. They may be taken at any time, day or night. They will positively relieve chronic or habitual constipation, if not of surgical variety, and the myriads of associate or dependent chronic ailments, if taken with regularity for a reasonable length of time. They come in two sizes of packages, 12 tablets, 70 cents; 36 tablets, 25 cents. Sold in Fort Wayne only at our store—The Rexall Store, Meyer Bros. Co., three drug stores.

"Time's Flight Turned Backward" SAGE AND SULPHUR Made Her Look Twenty Years Younger

READ MRS. HERRICK'S SWORN STATEMENT

STATE OF NEW YORK ss
COUNTY OF MONROE
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Nancy A. Herrick, being duly sworn, deposes and says: When I was a girl, I had a head of heavy, long, dark brown hair which was the envy of my schoolmates, and which attracted the attention and remarks of strangers. As I grew older, my hair commenced to come out, just a little at first, but gradually more and more, and then began to turn gray. I was induced by the many good reports I had heard of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy to try a bottle. My hair was quite thin and gray when I began using Sage and Sulphur, and you can imagine my satisfaction when I found that it was fast coming back to its natural condition, being thicker, darker and more glossy than it had been for a long time. I continued to use Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is now as heavy, dark and smooth as when I was a girl of sixteen. It is now four years since I commenced using Sage and Sulphur, and my hair is still in splendid condition.

Sworn to before me this 24th day of July, 1909.

FAITHFUL WIFE GOT HUBBY OUT OF LOCKUP

Borrowed Money to Pay His Fine After Having Him Arrested.

There's a fellow living in Fort Wayne who might hold a delayed Thanksgiving day today and thank the kind Providence that gave him such a faithful wife and he also might anticipate the first of January a few weeks and resolve that aside from lashing himself fast to a seat on the water wagon, he will keep away from a certain scarlet woman who lives in the district north of the jail and who is one great factor in his arrest Thursday and a suspended fine given him in the city court this morning.

The fellow's name is not being used for the reason that he went back to work this morning and if he has any manhood left in him he will reform and that is more important than punishing him. He said he was George Long and just for the sake of having a name handy to use in this story he will be called Long.

Long and his wife live in rooms over on—well it doesn't matter particularly what street—and he became the victim of a woman who is so thoroughly sunken in the mire of sin that she is envious of any other woman who keeps herself pure and this creature of the half world, not content with luring him to the place of which she is an inmate, cruelly crushed the wife by sending notes to her spouse and causing him to leave his own bed and that of his wife to go to this painted woman.

Finally the wife appealed to the police and Detective Harry Grimm told Long that if he didn't keep away from the woman that he would lock him up and get him a jail sentence. The detective also went to the fallen woman and told her that she must cease luring Long away from his wife or he would have her "canned" out of town.

This morning on the witness stand in the city court the detective stated that he met Long on the street Thursday and he asked him to go home with him and square him with Mrs. Long. He added that he went with Long to his home where he found the better half scratched and bleeding from the effects of her husband's blows. She was also sick at heart and told the detective she wanted her husband locked up and he was put in a cell and charged with public intoxication.

The wife thought it all over and did just exactly what about nine out of every ten women do. She got up early this morning, went to one of her neighbors, borrowed enough money to pay a fine, took it to police headquarters, deposited it there as bond money with the expectation that it would be forfeited, took her husband away with her before he had been submitted to the humiliation of appearing in court and sent him to work.

The judge didn't have the heart to take her money and it was or will be returned to her because if her husband had been found she would have been the real sufferer, so the fine of $1 and costs is suspended. Long may reform any when he comes to his senses he will probably realize that the discarded hair pins of a woman as faithful as the one who went to his rescue this morning are worth more than all the painted women in the world.

There were only two other cases in court. A couple of lads who live in the east end hopped a Pennsylvania freight train at Calhoun street to ride to Hanna and were arrested by railroad police. Their fines of $1 and costs were suspended on promises to keep off trains hereafter.

Miss Maud Peterson, of Canton, O., will arrive in the city Saturday to be the guest for a week or ten days of Mrs. Eric Peterson, of South Harrison street.

MR. CLINE IS ASKING FOR IMMEDIATE ACTION

Wants Waterways Incorporation Perfected
Without Delay.

Representative Cyrus Cline is urging immediate action toward incorporation of the waterways movement in accordance with the resolution adopted at the recent waterways convention in this city, and he is pointing out that delay may jeopardize the good work for the canal enterprise developed by the convention.

Mr. Cline is preparing to leave next week for Washington to resume his congressional duties and he is anxious to have the incorporation of the canal association perfected before the meeting of the National Rivers and Harbors congress at Washington next month. He believes this will enable the movement to command infinitely more support in the national body than can possibly be secured without it. In his opinion many of the Fort Wayne leaders of the project concur, and it is probable that early action in that direction will be taken.

The Twelfth district representative is in receipt of a communication from Frank S. Gardner, secretary of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation, urging him to support the movement for the creation of a national department of public works, in the hands of which all river and canal improvements shall be committed.

F. A. Randall will go to Albany, N. Y., next week to deliver an address before the New York state waterways congress.

TAKES OVER OLD AGENCY.
The Randall & Wiegman Company Secures Penn Mutual Business.

The Fort Wayne district agency for the Penn Mutual Life Insurance company, for thirty-eight years owned by the late Clark Fairbank, has been purchased by a new organization to be known as the Randall & Wiegman company, and Mrs. Fairbank will retire from the business on January 1. The new company is composed of A. L. Randall and Albert Wiegman, and offices have been moved into the North American building from the old location on Court street. Mr. Randall will retain control of his automobile and other interests, as well as giving attention to the new company.

George E. Randall, who has been in charge of the business since soon after the death of Mr. Fairbank, has gone to Pittsburg, where he has taken a position as advertising manager of the Pittsburg Leader. This is a work in which Mr. Randall was engaged for many years.

Harry Webb, of Marion, has taken a position as chef at the Baltics hotel.

HOOSIER BOYS WITH GUNS KEEP DAY IN FINE STYLE

Three Fatal Accidents in Which Firearms Figure as Cause.

Connersville, Ind., Nov. 26.—Clarice Capble, nine years old, was accidentally killed by Willard Tindler, 12, his companion on a hunting trip yesterday. The boys were in search of muskrat along the river. Tindler, who carried the gun raised the weapon to fire and just as it was discharged Capble ran in front of the barrel. The boy died within a short time.

When Tindler realized that he had killed his companion he fainted. Passers-by found him and took him home. He remained unconscious for two hours, but later revived and became hysterical.

POINTED GUN PLAYFULLY.

Decker, Ind., Nov. 26.—Clifford Blakely, 16, was fatally shot yesterday by Ellis Decker, who was examining Blakely's shot gun. He playfully pointed the gun at Blakely thinking it unloaded and pulled the trigger. The entire charge entered Blakely's stomach.

KILLED BY KID BROTHER.

Vincennes, Ind., Nov. 26.—Edward V. Parker, 23 years old, was fatally shot while hunting yesterday afternoon near Monroe City. With his fourteen year old brother-in-law, Cecil Stafford, Parker was walking through a woods when a 22 calibre rifle in the hands of Stafford was accidentally discharged. The ball went through Parker's liver, ranged upward and lodged in the lung.

FOR SUBURBAN HOME SITES.

Ashley Farm in St. Joseph Township Will Be Platted.

Ex-Recorder George L. Ashley, who is now engaged in the real estate business in this city, has determined to plat his St. Joseph township farm into suburban home tracts and it will be shortly placed upon the market.

The farm contains 74½ acres, and it is prettily located along the St. Joe river and the Robison park trolley line, four miles from the city, so that it will be possible for residents to secure electric lighting privileges and excellent car service, and as a suburban home site the location is ideal. Mr. Ashley will retain his own residence there. Within the past few years the platting of suburban tracts near Fort Wayne has become very popular.

The Charles B. Fitch insurance agency has just been removed to one of the handsomest suites in the new Shaff building.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Rev. F. E. Davidson, Rutland, Vt.

Backbone. International Bible Lesson for Nov. 28, 1909—Rom. 14: 10-21.)

There are three classes of people in every community—those with a straight backbone, those with a crooked backbone, and those with no backbone at all. The first class can bend backward or forward, to the right or the left, or stand erect and straight as an arrow. When the right needs a champion they can be as rigid as Bunker Hill monument. When they discover that they have swung a little out of plumb they can easily "brace up" into a perpendicular attitude. They are moral heroes. They can face storms of opposition without swerving a hair. They can stand alone, if necessary, without leaning on any one else.

Rigid Backbone.

Enoch was that sort. He stood alone, in the midst of a crooked and perverse generation, and he walked with God; when all the rest of mankind were going the other way. He received a perpendicular redemption, he went up to glory, as Christ did from the Mount of Olives, drawn out of the world by the power of heaven's gravitation.

Daniel, in Babylon was a striking example of a youth with backbone. He purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself. He acted like a gentleman about it, however. He had a level head on the top of his backbone. To have a spinal column is a great thing, but if a man has a full of brains to go with it, he is more likely to be a blessing than an imposition.

A Crooked Spine.

The second class of people are the unfortunates whose backbones are crooked. Sometimes they are born so, but more often they have met with some moral injury early in life, so that their backbone is twisted out of shape. They have moral curvature of the spine. They cannot well change their position. Have you never known people who were so built that they would suffer all sorts of inconveniences rather than retract a statement?

or give up a position when once they have put their foot down. The world calls them "peculiar," "queer," "set," "cranky." If they happen to get a wrong notion into their heads, the more you try to beat it out, the more they stick to it.

"Convince a man against his will, He's of the same opinion still."

The Scribes and Pharisees in Christ's day were affected with this disease universally. They simply would not be convinced. The fact that Christ's teaching was new, was enough to condemn it. If He had taught them as their fathers and their grandfathers, and their great-grandfathers had taught them they would have accepted Him, but He taught differently from any other teacher—therefore He must be wrong. They were so twisted about that they were actually looking backward, and a religious teaching that was later than Moses and the prophets did not appeal to them. They had the telescope to their eyes, to be sure, but they were stubbornly searching the books of Leviticus and Deuteronomy for directions concerning life in the year of our Lord 30. The police laws of Moses for the tribes of Israel on their way through the wilderness were all right for that time and occasion, but they are not in the same class with the sermon on the Mount. Yet the Mount of Beatitudes to those people was as nothing to Sinai, and the tender messages of the Divine Saviour had no attractions to those who thought of God as a hurler of thunderbolts upon cowering sinners. Twisted, all out of plumb, sticking to their ideas not because they were right, but because they had been brought up that way, by teachers who were crooked before them.

Invertebrates.

There is one other class of people we sometimes meet. They are jellyfish characters—without any moral backbone at all. Their spinal column is only so much gristle. They have not so much vertebra as an eel. They are as well suited in one place as another. They float like a cork on the tide. They never stem any storms. They never row up stream. They go with the crowd. If the crowd is right, they are right. If the crowd is wrong, they are wrong. They are morally soft, easily impressed and influenced. When they are with good people, they are good. When they are with bad people, they are bad. Their motto is, when you are with the Romans do as the Romans do. And they think that is a text in the Bible.

To which class do you belong?

When He Gets Time.

"When I get time," said Halsey Simms one day in Stokes' store.

"I'm going to fix my fences up."

"An' close my farm once more."

"I'm going to clean my pasture lot."

"I'll do all the underbrush."

"I'm going to do all that," said he.

"When I get time," said he.

"An' then I'm going to dig a well close by the kitchen door."

"So we won't have to huz our drink."

"I'm going to fix a barn."

"I'm going to dam my miller lot."

"An' put my ice in free."

"No sense in buyin' ice at all."

Said Halsey Simms to me.

"An' then," said he, "when I get time I'm going to lay the woods."

"An' cut some timber for a barn."

"To hold my farm's goods."

"The one I've got ain't big enough."

"An' when I get time done."

"I'm going to keep a dozen cows inside my only one."

An' Halsey dreamed an' talked by day.

An' planned an' talked by night.

About the things 'at he would do.

Whenever time come right.

He's talkin' us 'em jest the same.

In Stokes' store today.

But Halsey ain't no different.

Consultation, Examination and Treatment at 820 Harrison St.

Nothing to pay for except remedies used. Hours—8 a. m. to 8 p. m. Sunday—10 to 12.

CURED WITHOUT OPERATION.

I was ailing for 30 years, tried many doctors, ready-made remedies, mail treatment—everything without avail. Local physicians agreed there was no cure for me except the knife. I WAS ON MY WAY TO THE HOSPITAL when I read of Dr. Kowenscott and was profoundly impressed with the superior skill of this expert who revealed my history so far back that I stood enchanted; described every ache, pain and symptom better than I could. At a glance he read my complaint like an open book. Here was a revelation! His treatment and remedies were no "loss a surprise" not only different from any I ever had, but so effective as to make me think that the easiest task of all is the curing of chronic disease by these adepts. I am very grateful for what he did for me.

MRS. JOSEPH TERRY,
231 West Main St., Fort Wayne.

SENSATIONAL CURE.

Every Tom, Dick and Harry gives medical advice, but some diseases are even physicians and nurses into silence. Such was the malady of Mr. Louis Brown, a well-known veteran near Auburn, Ind. No one who saw him would believe he could be much benefited. His affection kept both hands and other parts in the shape of solid crusts, disabling him from the lightest work. He grasped the remedy as the drowning clutch a straw. His suffering was indescribable and he was fast losing faith in Medical Science, when he consulted Dr. Kowenscott, who removes the cause of chronic ailments instead of treating the symptoms, and thus restored Mr. Brown to the enjoyment of perfect health, than which there is nothing greater on this earth.

WE GUARANTEE CURES TO BE LASTING.

Mrs. Edward Snyder, 235 Main St., City, who had suffered for months from severe nervous trouble, says: "I certainly have improved very much under your treatment."

Through the very latest scientific researches, both by improved instruments and methods the doctor is enabled to discover the true nature of the disease and locate the organ or parts affected. Many diseases and complications which have hitherto proven most obstinate to the medical profession yield like magic under his skill and systematic treatment.

CATARH IS THE FORERUNNER OF CONSUMPTION.

Mr. August Kelenberg, of New Haven, Ind., a railroad man, says: "I was afflicted with stomach and bowel catarrh for some time, and during last summer the trouble became so bad that I had to lay off from work; I was weak and dizzy with constant pains in my head and body; tried different means of cure during this time, but obtained no benefit until I placed my case with Dr. E. J. Kowenscott. The medical and electrical treatment I obtained at this famous establishment rapidly made me much better and I was soon able to take up my work. At this time I am feeling fine and am a well man again."

SUBSTITUTE FOR STEAM ON HARRIMAN BRANCH LINE.

GASOLINE CAR FOR ARDEN BRANCH ROAD

Gasoline as a substitute for steam is to have a trial trip on the Harriman branch road at Arden, N. Y. The car illustrated is designed to carry a dozen or more passengers from a point on the Erie railroad to the residence of Mrs. E. H. Harriman. It is a Lambert friction drive, specially constructed throughout, and is said to be the first similar machine ever built for such a purpose. Its use at Arden will be in the nature of an experiment, and its operation will be carefully watched to ascertain whether or not a gasoline propelled car can be used as economically as one driven by steam on short branches.

TOLD BY THE TRAMP

It Takes Genius to Succeed in His Profession.

HOW HE MANAGES IT.

Gets 'Em in Every Case by His Moving Tales of Blood, Treasure and Love—Winds Up by Becoming the Honored Guest.

By M. QUAD.
(Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.)

"YOU'VE never stopped to reflect that it takes a student of human nature and a good talker to become a successful tramp," said the dilapidated gentleman as we sat together in the park. "That's where all you newspaper fellows and the general public make a mistake. You don't divide the tramp into classes. You throw 'em all together into the bag and label 'em 'Tramp.'"

"Then there are classes?" I asked. "Three, sir, just as there is among other professions—the success, the mediocre and the failure. Did you ever hear of a tramp having quit the road because he was a failure? No? Well, I've met with a score of instances. They were failures and they had to go. There are plenty of others who hang on by the skin of their teeth. There are not in the United States today more than fifty successful tramps—the flockfellers, the Carnegies and the Morgans of the profession.

"You will ask, sir, what makes a successful tramp, and I answer that it's in knowing what his customers want and in giving it to them. When a dilapidated turns into the gate of a farmer that farmer don't expect to hire him. He don't ask him to work for a meal and lodgings. He sizes him up, and if he thinks he's a talker he's invited to stop; if not, he's given a bite and told to pass on. Except in the midst of harvest time the farmer had rather have talk than work.

Tale of Blood Is Begun.

"Behold me, sir, seated at the family fireside after a good supper! The farmer has sized me up for a talker and treated me well. It's up to me now not to disappoint the family. That family wouldn't be a bit interested if you talked all night about politics, astrology, the occult or fashions. There are three things they expect me to talk about, and after a little skirmishing I begin my tale of blood. It's never exactly the same in details, but the supply of blood is always a full barrel. We'll say that I start off on what I call the sawmill mystery. I'm tramping along a highway when a country constable takes me, and I plunge into a thick wood to avoid him. I get lost and wander about for hours and finally come upon an old sawmill. I take shelter, to find a wagon load of human bones scattered about. There's bones of men, women and children, and there's blood spots over everything.

"I am wondering what sort of a shop I have got into when in walks a man clothed in skins and having a mop of red hair. He carries a great club in his hand and is carrying a young woman on his shoulder. She pleads for her life, but he utters a ha ha! He crushes her head down on a saw log, and there is a shriek and a blow, and another victim is added to his score. My thrilled listeners are expecting me to dash forward and seize the giant by the throat and do his business, and I have to explain that I had a bolt on my leg and could not prance around; also that I thought it best to give him more rope and get a good case against him.

The Unfeeling Constable. "I make a sneak out of the old mill, find my way out of the woods and inform a constable of what I have seen. He shows me a list of fifty-two people that have mysteriously disappeared in the last year, and we are ready to start in search of the sawmill when we get into a dispute about Jonah and the whale, and the officer runs me into the coop for ten days as a suspicious character, and nothing is ever done about the blood and bones. There are ten minutes in which that family gives way to indignation against the constable and would read him limb from limb if they had him, and then they are ready for my story of treasure.

"I have located that story in many places and many lands, but of late have found that an island in the West Indies takes best. I am in the city of New York as a starter. I lose $2 in a gambling house, and the police want to capture me and club me to death in my cell so that I cannot squeal and deprive them of their incomes. I flee to the piers, drive the crew off of J. P. Morgan's yacht and single handed run her to the West Indies. There I drop in my tracks for the want of sleep, and the craft is run on a reef and wrecked. The first thing I do on awakening is to send a wireless to Mr. Morgan, hoping I have put him to no inconvenience, and then I walk ashore to see where I am at.

"I am on a desert island. Not even Long Island celery grows there. I secure from the wreck of the yacht a can of baking powder, a bottle of tomato sauce and a package of dried apples, all of which were grown on Mr. Morgan's beautiful estate, and for a week I live like a prince. Then I have to dig for a living. I am digging in the sand and have got down about ten feet when I strike the five iron hooped hogheads buried by Captain Kidd over a hundred years before. On the head of each hoghead are the initials 'C. K.' and there can be no mistake. I heave the hogheads up and break them open with a stone. Each one is full of doubloons and jewels.

Wealth Galore—and Then Some.

"When the treasure is at last spread out on the ground it covers every square foot of the island. I do not try to estimate its value. I know there is enough to keep me in autos for years to come. I leave the treasure scattered about to show that I am used to reveling in luxury, and one morning five men land from a boat. They chuck me into the hole I had dug, barrel up the treasure and sail away, and three days later I am rescued by a man-of-war which was looking for a goat that had fallen overboard.

"That family pities me and sympathizes with me and goes for the five men who despoiled me, and the farmer announces that he will chip in $2 to hunt them down if I will agree to give him one of the hogheads when found. We talk over the injustice of this world for a few minutes, and then I am ready for my tale of love.

"I am the son of a multimillionaire, but don't care to have it known. The family promises to keep the thing dark. I had finished my education and was travelling in Europe, when I met the loveliest girl my eyes ever beheld. In fact, I had the pleasure of rescuing her as she fell off a wharf and was drowning. We were both wet, but not too much to fall in love at first sight. She proved to be the daughter of a count. He was hard up and wanted $5,000,000 to become my father-in-law. My father wouldn't lend it to me, and there was nothing to do but elope.

Squeeze to Death in the Drain. "After many disappointments we arranged the program. The count dwelt in a castle, and every night it was watched by forty lusty retainers. They were supposed to be loyal unto death. But there was one of them who wanted to open a butcher shop for himself, and I bribed him for $50,000 to let my love creep out of the castle through an old drain. The man played square with me; but alas, we hadn't figured right on the dimensions of the drain. At one point it narrowed so that the dear girl got squeeze in and could neither come ahead nor go backwards. I was waiting for three days before I learned what the trouble was. Then they had dug down and released her but her gentle spirit had fled, and this world held no more for me.

"For ten minutes after this tale is told we all sit very still and furtively wipe away our tears. Then the farmer gets up and winds the clock, turns the dog outdoors and says to me:

"Come to the spare bedroom, poor man—come! And on the way you might tell me if you like fried ham and eggs for breakfast."

"There you are, and there you are," said the dilapidated as he rose up. "It's easy to be a tramp if you know how. If you don't you had better turn to some of the other professions—some where oratory is not required."

Kept It Quiet.

"Did the father of the bride give her away?" "Far from it. He told the bridegroom that she had the disposition of an angel."—Baltimore American.

Poor Baby!

"Why are you so bitter against Uncle Nebuchadnezzar?" "He lost his money shortly after we named the baby for him."—Pittsburg Post.

Transportation.

I took the coach to London town. We jogged along the way. The fields were green and red and brown; The sky was blue and gray. The lark sang and the nightingale. The rain fell and the dew. Long since, and yet I'll never forget "That trip I made with you!" I took the train to London town. We sped along the rails. A flash of green, a blur of brown. A glimpse of whitening sails. I could not see the hawthorn tree I saw of old, 'tis true. It could not last, we went so fast That second trip with you.

I motored down to London town

A year or two ago. If lord or clown in smock or gown We passed I do not know. And tree and croft and hill and vale, So wondrous swift they flew I cannot tell what scenes befell Upon that trip with you. To London town I flitted down At dawn yesterday. Our airship popped—popped—stopped—ped. And we had landed! Nay; I saw no scenes nor broad demesnes Nor green nor brown nor blue. They put me down in London town. I'm here, my dear, are you? —Ted Robinson in Cleveland Leader.

Croup Cured and a Child's Life Saved.

"It affords me great pleasure to add my testimony to that of the thousands who have been benefited by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. My child, Andrew, when only three years old was taken with a severe attack of croup, and thanks to the prompt use of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, his life was saved and today he is a robust and healthy boy," says Mrs. A. Coy, Jr., of San Antonio, Texas. This remedy has been in use for many years. Thousands of mothers keep it at hand, and it has never been known to fail. For sale by all druggists.

Have you tried the new Flour that just came to town. "DIADEM" crowns them all. 23-26

Supers are very particular about the distribution of parts. In a fairy piece a set of dominos was represented by men wearing on their backs boards marked with the different numbers. A discontented super gave in his resignation. "Why, what's the matter?" asked the astonished director; "don't you get your 15 sous a night like the others?" "It isn't about the sous at all. I am one of the oldest artists belonging to the theater and they ought to have made me the double six; instead of that I am the lowest number—the double blank."

Good Cough Medicine for Children and Grown Folks, Too.

"We could hardly do without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy," says Mrs. Flora Despain, of Bloyd, Ky. "I found it to be so good for the croup and have used it for years. I can heartily recommend it for coughs, colds and croup in children and grown folks, too." The above shows the implicit confidence that many mothers place in Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, a confidence based on many years' experience in the use of it. No one need hesitate to use this remedy for it contains no chloroform, opium or other narcotics and may be given to a child as confidently as to an adult. For sale by all druggists.

Little Jack Horner sat in a corner eating his Christmas pie,
He let a piece fall on his waist and said "What a careless boy am I,
But I needn't worry about this stain,
Fels-Naptha'll make it all clean again."

Did you ever think of the difference between washing and cleaning?

You can wash with any kind of soap in any kind of water, hot or cold.

You can boil clothes and rub them on a washboard until your back aches.

All that is washing.

But it isn't always cleaning.

Most soaps are just washing soaps.

They furnish a little lather and let you do the work.

Fels-Naptha is a cleaning soap.

It works all by itself in cool or lukewarm water, saving all the trouble and discomfort of boiling and hot suds.

Fels-Naptha Soap cleans your clothes.

It really reaches the dirt and dissolves it.

It does this while the soaped clothes are soaking in cool or lukewarm water, while you are thinking of something else or resting.

When Fels-Naptha Soap gets through with them—thirty minutes or so is long enough—you rub lightly, rinse the clothes and they're cleaner, sweeter and whiter than you could get them by washing all day in the old-fashioned manner.

You'll find directions for using Fels-Naptha printed on the back of the red and green wrapper.

FIVE OF GUESTS AT WEDDING DROWN IN LAKE

Following Fire Panic a Launch Upsets Off Muskegon.

Muskegon, Mich., Nov. 26.—Oscar Leaf and Hilda Beckstrom, who were married yesterday, sped on to Chicago on a honeymoon unaware that five of their friends who saw them wedded died in the lake late yesterday afternoon as the result of an accident to their boat.

The party, consisting of ten persons, after the ceremony, concluded to take a boat ride. They went out in a launch and it turned turtle following a fire. The girls aboard became frightened when they saw the fire and in panic all rushed to one end of the boat. It tipped back up in the air and all were thrown into the lake.

Five of the party were saved by a launch operated by Capt. John Welch.

Lays Blame to Match.

Capt. Welch, owner of the rescuing launch, says the fear of the girls led to the accident. He says the small fire did not endanger the gasoline tank of the boat. Capt. Welch believes the accident was unavoidable and that Nelson, the capsized boat's operator, did all possible to avert it.

The tragedy primarily resulted, it is believed, from one of the party throwing a match under the seats of the launch. Capt. Welch does not believe it resulted from bad condition of the engine, Nelson being a good marine man.

The five who were saved clung to the bottom of the overturned boat for nearly an hour until the rescuing boat could make its way to the scene.

THE BRIDAL 'TOWER'

By BESSIE R. HOOVER

Copyright 1909, By Benj. B. Hampton.

CHICAGO is my city, announced Pa Flickinger with the air of a traveled cosmopolitan.

"What's Chicago got to do with the price of cabbage—I thought you was looking in up the price in the Daily Palladium," said Ma Flickinger, one evening after supper. "Kraut time's right here—now."

"I was a-lookin' up cabbages with a view to sauerkraut, when my eye lit on this here ad: 'One eighty-five—round-trip ticket to Chicago. That's a mighty big cut.'"

"I dunno as the cut rates to Chicago makes the price of cabbages any cheaper here," remarked Ma dryly.

"I've got an idee," began Pa.

"Then don't give it away," snapped Ma. "Have you found that market report yet?"

"No. Say—this excursion'd be slick for Billie and Sophie's bridal tower."

"Sot would," acknowledged Ma, "but they've been married three weeks."

"Well, I dunno as it's too late yet for a bridal tower," maintained Pa.

And that very evening when their newly married son and his wife came in, Pa explained to them about the cheap rates to the city.

"You young folks ought to have a bridal tower." It's a shame you didn't have one to start on. Git leave at the factory, Bill, and you and Sophie and your ma and me'll go over and see the city. I've got a half-sister livin' there."

"We won't do no such thing," flatly contradicted Ma; "you ain't saw your half-sister for twenty years."

"What difference does that make? returned Pa, a little dashed. "Lobelia's true blue—she'd be tickled to death to see me."

"I dunno whether she would or not," doubted Ma. "There don't none of us need to go," said Bill a little sullenly, "so what's the use of jawin' over it?"

"See here, Billie, you ain't married every day," stated Pa, "and a bridal tower'd be sommat to remember."

Sophie's eyes began to sparkle with anticipation. "Oh, if we only could go, Billie, can't we?" she coaxed.

Now, Billie Flickinger, still enchanted by the wonderful light of the honeymoon, could as yet refuse his pretty Polish wife nothing.

"Well, go," he decided recklessly.

"Bridal towers cost money," warned Ma Flickinger for his own good.

"When I was a lad I lived in Chicago onct for several months," informed Pa, "and I visited Lobelia there twenty year back; I could show you folks the whole blamed thing as easy as anything."

"What do you know about the city now?" Ma asked suspiciously.

"Now? Why—same as I ever did. Lead me to Michigan avenue, blindfolded—remove the handkercher, and I'll bet you, Ma, that I could git to any part of the city from there. Lobelia lives 'way over on the South Side."

"You and Ma ain't goin with us, are you?" inquired Bill ungraciously.

"Don't let that worry you," answered Ma crossly. "No."

"Why for Papa and Mamma Flickinger to go with us, Billie, would be all the nicer," said Sophie generously.

"Billie, you'd be like a bleatin' lamb alone in the city," asserted Pa.

"Let the young folks go by themselves," advised Ma, "though I'd 'liked to 'a' saw Chicago, too," she added a little wistfully.

"And, Ma, say—Lincoln Park—acres and acres of flower beds and grottos," informed Pa, "and wild menagerie animals. Say! I saw a leopard there onct—knew him by his spots."

"Do you pay to git into Lincoln Park?" questioned Ma cautiously.

"Not a cent. And, the Masonic Temple—twenty stories high—ever been atop of that, Ma?"

"Land o' Goshen! no! Think I'm a travelin' salesman? How does a body git up?"

"Elevator—just like fallin', you go so fast—only in 'other direction."

"I want to go now worse'n ever," cried Sophie.

"We might write to Lobelia and ask if 't would be convenient," gave in Ma.

"I'd ruther surprise her," answered Pa, "it'd save writin'."

"Still I dunno about a passel of greenys like us a droppin' down sudden on your half-sister," worried Ma.

"As I said before," assured Pa, "Lobelia'll be tickled to death to see us."

"We'll go," agreed Ma, "but I bet we'll wish we hadn't."

Monday morning, long before daylight, Ma and Pa Flickinger were getting ready for the excursion that started at seven. Though it was well into December the ground was not yet frozen, and a drizzling rain was falling.

"THE RIDE HOME WAS A DELIGHT"

"I dunno as we'd better go after all," said Ma; "look at the weather."

"Shucks!" exclaimed Pa buoyantly. "I won't be rained, probably, in Illinois."

"I cooked a hen, but I don't know where it went to," fretted Ma.

"No use to tote victuals along," grumbled Pa, "we git there at eleven-thirty."

"Suppose we git snowed in—or wrecked. Land! I wish that chicken'd show up."

"I seen a fried chicken on the cellar shelf," reluctantly informed Pa.

A full hour before starting time Ma and Pa Flickinger and Bill and Sophie were at the depot. After a dismal spell of waiting the train puffed up to the little brick station and the excursionists came pouring out into the rain.

"Here, Pa, you take the lunch basket," commanded Bill. "I've got to help Sophie on."

"Danged victuals!" growled Pa. "I'd like to ba-h this thing agin a post and leave the grub fly. But he lacked the courage to do it."

Ma and Pa sank thankfully into a red plush-covered seat back of Sophie and Bill. It was raining harder than ever, and the smoke and steam drew a blurred veil across the car windows.

"Spein' much, Ma?" asked Pa genially.

"Nothin' but coal smoke and other folks's backs," replied Ma tartly.

"You'll begin to see plenty when you git into the city onct," affirmed Pa.

"But it worries me to think of what we'll do when we git there—we might not find Lobelia."

"If I git queered and don't know jest what I'm doin'—I'll ask a man," answered Pa easily.

"I wish we hadn't planned to stay a week," worried Ma.

"I couldn't show you the city in less time," said Pa firmly.

git my bearin's. Gittin' off the cars queered me—sommat."

Sophie and Bill were walking happily behind under one umbrella, feeling no responsibility, as Pa Flickinger was there especially to take care of them.

"Go to a house, ring the bell, and ask where Lobelia lives," dictated Ma.

"If they didn't happen to know," complained Pa, "I'd look green. Lobelia's street was right around in here somewheres, but things don't look jest natural to me yet."

"I knew all the time we ought not to come," cried Ma. "What on earth'll we do? Soppin' wet—and lost in a great city!"

"We ain't lost," denied Pa stubbornly, "but I don't know jest where we are—that's all."

After another spell of helpless wandering, Pa Flickinger courageously inquired at a corner grocery and again at a drug store, for Lobelia, but received no information.

"The only way I see to do now," he announced desperately, "is to take a street car for down-town, find Michigan avenue, and strike out from there—I used to git to Lobelia's that way."

He hailed a passing street car, and they got on; but it was a West Side line; and the conductor obligingly directed them to the Illinois Central railroad.

"Where we goin' now?" Ma demanded, as soon as they were seated on the train, after a tedious, dragging hunt for the station.

"I dunno exactly," acknowledged the perplexed guide, "but we're on'th the wet, and movin'."

"We're goin' somewhere all right, all right," grinned Bill carelessly. But Sophie was beginning to feel that their "bridal tower" was causing Papa Flickinger lots of trouble.

When they got off the train down-town at the Randolph street station, they were fairly dazed by the roar of the great city that smote their unaccustomed ears; such puffings, whistlings, clanging, rattlings and poundings they had never before heard.

"Now where we goin'?" cried Ma frantically, poking Pa with the lunch basket, which in his haste he had forgotten.

"Foller these folks," shouted Pa, as a crowd of men and women surged by them.

"Where's everybody goin'?" screamed Ma.

But Pa made no reply, walking stubbornly ahead, as much at sea as Ma was, but grimly determined not to act green.

"Ask one of these men," shrilly insisted Ma.

"Can't nobody hear nothin'," yelled Pa, as the traffic of the great city beat about them. "I'll be all right when I find Michigan avenue onct."

Miserably they went on, coming unexpectedly out on a broad, gray-paved street, black with bobbing umbrellas, and threaded by automobiles and other vehicles.

Pa Flickinger, knowing that something must be done, heroically accented a blue-coated man, "Can you tell me whereabouts I am?"

"Michigan avenue," answered the policeman.

Pa stood completely wilted, while the great stone blocks of that long-remembered street towered coldly upward in the gritty rain.

"I wish I was dead," lamented Ma, "these buildin's fairly make my head swim. Pa, what're we goin' to do now? Billie, what say?" turning to her stalwart son in this, her dire extremity.

"Why—jest whatever Pa says," filially answered Bill, beginning to feel a queer physical discomfort, not far from homesickness.

"I guess," admitted Pa, woefully crestfallen, "that we'd ought to 'a' writ to Lobelia first. I don't seem to feel at home on Michigan avenue, now I'm here. But we might find out where our railroad station is, now we're down-town—then we'd know how to git home—'tain't far from here; we could look up Lobelia later." And Pa brazenly questioned another policeman.

"Eleven blocks down, to the left," was the reply. "Come on, folks," said Pa wearily, "we'll look the station up jest for fun."

Stolidly they plodded along the grimy boulevard, the wind and rain contesting every step as if determined to make them as uncomfortable as possible.

"Land! are folks gone crazy?" exclaimed Ma in amazement. "They all rush as if they was sent for!"

The dingy depot was lighted with electricity that seemed to accentuate, rather than illumine the gloom.

"This is the station, all right," communicated Pa to his folks, after he had interviewed the ticket agent.

"We might," he suggested, "go back home now—the train starts in jest eight minutes."

"Could we, Pa, honest?" cried Ma, her face brightening. "What say, Sophie and Billie: it's your tower?"

Bill, reduced to an amoeba-like mass of concession, was ready to do anything for anybody.

"Let's go home; if we stay longer our clothes will be blacker yet," said practical Sophie.

"What say, folks—shall we go back? faltered Pa, trying to keep the eagerness out of his voice, but not succeeding particularly well.

"I'd go in a minute, if it didn't look so silly," said Ma.

"Well, we're here at the depot," argued Pa; "and if we went a-gallivantin' off lookin' up Lobelia, could we find our way back here agin?"

"That's sense," struck in Ma emphatically; "git out the tickets—and we'll go home." But as they passed on to the tracks, she cried: "Lookie, Pa—New York Central on that coach. 'T ain't our train at all. I don't see how the ticket man could story so out'n whole cloth."

There's likely to be most any old train a-comin' in here," encouraged Pa, and made inquiry of another man in blue; by this time he was becoming hardened to it.

"To the right—in about three minutes."

"That there ticket agent" (whom Ma now felt to be a double-dyed deceiver) "said eight minutes," she complained.

"I was eight minutes—five minutes ago, Ma," grinned Bill.

"Wall this train take me home?" questioned Pa nervously, of still another man.

"Where do you live?" was the natural query. Pa told him.

"I dunno but what I misjudged that there ticket man," acknowledged Ma.

"Homeward bound to me consolin'," quoted Pa, as with sighs of relief they dropped into the easy, cushioned seats in the nearly empty car.

The train glided smoothly along within a few feet of Lake Michigan, which lay choppy and grayish green, tossing broken waves in white foam over the post and stone breakwater.

"What's got into Lake Michigan?" cried Ma critically. "I thought it was blue."

"If the sun would make a shine it would quick get very different," explained Sophie. "It's a mighty neat little body of water," complimented Pa.

"Where's that basket I toted a thousand miles?" inquired Bill.

Ma quickly produced the lunch, which was hailed with enthusiasm.

"Me for the gizzard, remember," petitioned Pa, as they began to eat.

The ride home was a delight to the Flickingers. The trailing smoke that had helped to obscure everything in the morning, now rolled higher above the car, and gave them an unrestricted view of the country.

"There," informed Pa, who was giving the family a running lecture on the passing attractions, "is the Dewey cannon—the pride of Three Oaks," as a small black cannon in a little park came to view.

"I thought it was one Washington had when he whipped Napoleon," said Sophie.

"Washington freed the slaves," corrected Bill.

"Dewey came along a little later—I should judge," remarked Pa, who was shaky on dates.

"Dewey blew up the Maine. Can't you remember that far back?" laughed Bill.

"I kinder like to travel," observed Ma cheerfully, "you learn so much."

"I never did have such a good time, already," declared Sophie. "It was grand."

"Well, we've seen the city and had our little fling," philosophized Pa, "and though we didn't do jest as we had planned, Sophie and Billie've had a bridal tower that they can remember world without end."

"And you did powerful well showin' us around, Pa, for a greeny," allowed Ma generously.

"Chicago is my city," Pa staunchly maintained, "but she'd growed—sommat."

The Open Door

By Louise Elizabeth Dutton

Copyright 1909, By Benj. B. Hampton.

WHEN Pierce first saw Gertrude Raines, she was driving in the park with her mother, her brown eyes were fixed on her mother's face. Pierce was conscious of two desires: to make her look at him, and stop looking at her mother. He believed he had accomplished these two things five months later when they sailed for Cicily on their wedding trip. The night they came home down the hill with their hands full of unknown flowers, and found Mrs. Raines, a maid, and their suit-cases occupying the little sitting-room of the house they had taken, Pierce changed his mind.

She had come over to sail with them, it appeared. Pierce remonstrated with Gertrude in private.

"Why, Dick," she said, "I'm her youngest child, and the only daughter she's got."

This argument Pierce learned by heart on the way home, together with the fact that Mrs. Raines was seascick, unless Gertrude read to her. Also she was coming to share their apartment the next winter.

But it was not only the apartment she shared. "All Gertrude's friends are my friends," she announced to Pierce blandly, as she gave up a concert unsolicited to make tea for his best friend and the nice girl he had met in Rome.

"All Gertrude's friends are my friends," she repeated plaintively, when Dick and Gertrude found her in tears on their return home from a studio dinner they had gone to without her.

Gertrude continued gentle and smiling. Gertrude was half English and the other half angel, Pierce said. But she was also more than half pleased when Pierce rebelled.

"I bought you something to-day, dear," he said one night. Gertrude was combing her hair. She had brown hair, straight and very soft. "It's a house," added Pierce. Gertrude continued to comb her hair.

"Where is it?" she said.

"It's on Sixty-eighth street," said Pierce, "and your mother is not going to live in it."

"We'll have pink roses on our paper," said Gertrude happily.

Mrs. Raines received the news with few words and apparent calmness. They added a French basement, secured the pink roses, and enough shelves for Pierce's books, and took their first dinner there 'n May. Pierce bought liberty-roses that matched the candle-shades, and he made the salad after a fashion of his own that involved lemon juice and no vinegar, and varied according to one's mood. Gertrude pinned a rose on Pierce's coat, and tucked one into her hair. She was wearing a low, white gown that had belonged to her touseau.

"It needs to be cleaned, anyhow," she apologized. But they both knew better.

This is the first meal we have had alone together for six months and two weeks," said Pierce after calculation. Gertrude lighted his pipe and said nothing, but she drew his arm around her as they went up to the drawing-room.

They put out all the lamps but one, and Gertrude played Chopin. Gertrude could not play anything well, and Chopin she could not play at all. Pierce did not care for Chopin, but he cared a good deal for Gertrude. When she made mistakes, she looked up at him with frightened child's eyes, and he laughed at her, and she laughed, too.

By-and-bye she made such a big mistake that she stopped playing and came to stand beside Pierce, looking out of the window at the opposite lights.

"We don't know anybody on this street," she said. "We're all alone," agreed Pierce comfortably.

Someone else was playing Chopin, accurately and with accent.

"It sounds almost like mother," she said.

"It isn't," said Pierce, still more comfortably; and they drew down the shades and went upstairs.

Five minutes later Gertrude burst into his dressing-room, caught both his hands and pulled him toward their door. "Dick," she cried, "there's somethin' in the room."

"Lots of things," began Dick pleasantly; but a faint rumbling stopped him. "Seems to come from the wall," he commented and knelt to look under the bureau; "rats," he added.

"Rats don't wear silk petticoats," said Gertrude, as a rustling was joined with the rumbling, and the sound of a faint muffled voice, "and rats don't talk." She went on: "Oh, Dick, come away, please. Get up and come here. It's a burglar, and she'll probably shoot you."

"Listen," said Pierce, getting to his feet and putting a quieting hand on Gertrude's shoulder. "What is it she's trying to say?"

"Move it," said the voice impatiently.

"Where on earth," muttered Pierce, looking helplessly at the ceiling.

"Move it," said the voice impatiently; "move your bureau about three feet to one side."

"You're not afraid, are you?" asked Dick.

"No, no," said Gertrude, and she stood in the middle of the room and watched Dick push at the heavy old bureau. It tuck, swayed, and slipped easily out of the way. Dick stepped back panting, and a section of the wall opened before Gertrude's startled eyes. A gray-clad woman stood in the opening. Gertrude gave one glance at the pink cheeks and marcelled white hair.

"Mother!" she cried, and caught at Dick's arm.

"How—" began Dick feebly. "How—good Lord!"

Mrs. Raines picked up her long skirt between two fingers, and came forward, smiling upon them.

"It's my little surprise," she said; "my surprise for your house-warming, dears." She settled herself on Gertrude's divan and explained herself to the now speechless Pierces.

"When you took the house," she said, "I was so sorry for Gertrude; I know how she always depends on me, and how helpless she is without me. So I came down quite by myself to see what I could do. The house next door is really a much nicer one than yours, Dick; I should have advised you to buy it if you'd consulted me. But I'm glad you didn't, for now I have bought it myself. I had it decorated without telling you, and my bedroom is right on the other side of this partition. I had a telephone put in at the head of my bed, so that I shall be able to call you up, Gertrude, dear, at any time in the night. But the door is best of all."

"Yes, mamma," said Gertrude faintly.

"Best of all," went on Mrs. Raines, "and quite accidental, too. I found some charming paper at Forest's dear, with large red poppies, and so I had my bedroom rehung. And in rehunging, the men found that the houses had once been connected, and the door was papered over. I took your carpenters into the secret, and I got the door opened again, and here I am."

"Here you certainly are," admitted Pierce, putting his hands deep into his dressing-gown pockets.

Mrs. Raines did not make a long first call. She had staved up on purpose to tell them to-night, she said, and now she was tired. She would be over early in the morning to help Gertrude with the marketing.

"And that gown, dear, isn't fresh enough to wear," she called back from the threshold, "and it's too elaborate, anyway, for a home dinner."

"I'm the youngest," began Gertrude, as the door closed behind her.

"That is quite true," said Pierce shortly, "but you are also my wife," and he put his hand on the knob of the new door.

"I want to tell you," began Gertrude, flushing.

"I don't care what you tell me," said Pierce. "This thing is going to be settled right now."

Gertrude did not tell him anything; she talked to him quietly a few minutes. Pierce did not follow her reasoning clearly, but he found himself growing quiet, too, and coming to an agreement with her. The door must be closed. Gertrude might manage it herself if she chose. He was going away for a business trip. But if the door was still open when he came back, he would send for carpenters and go away again till it was closed.

"So you won't mind if I make some changes in the house while you're gone?" said Gertrude slowly.

Then she came over to Dick and kissed him. "Thank you, dear," she said. "I've known you minded things, but thank you for trusting me. You aren't going to be sorry."

Gertrude's letters were non-committal and concerned with fact; shopping with her mother, drives with her mother, sewing also with her mother.

"But I'm so happy," she wrote, "and when you come back you'll know why."

Pierce, seeing how much mother there was in the letters, and how little of the mild spring gaieties, was troubled. Even bridge and luncheons faded out of the last week's letters. But "The repairs on the house are finished to day," he read in the last letter, and was comforted.

"Is it closed?" he asked Gertrude before he kissed her.

"Is what closed?" she asked. "What did you bring me home? Is it in this pocket?"

"Is the door closed?" said Pierce, starting up the stairs. Gertrude followed him softly.

"No," she said, "I've had it made a little wider."

"Is that what you meant by repairs?" asked Pierce with gathering rage.

"That and a few other things," she said. "Don't say anything yet, Dick, but come up and see."

A breath of lavender met him as Gertrude opened the door.

"You never used that in our room," he muttered. Gertrude slipped her hand in his.

"This isn't our room now," she said softly. Pierce looked about him.

There was no mahogany left. Everything was white now, white and befrilled. Beside him there was a low, white chiffonier with a white, pink-tipped rose in a glass on top of it. Gertrude opened a drawer, and Pierce, looking over her shoulder, saw some small white things in straight piles.

Gertrude was speaking evenly. "There's so much sun in here," she said, "that I thought we'd take the empty room ourselves and use this for the nursery."

She drew back a dimity curtain, and behind it the forbidden door stood open into Mrs. Raines' room. Mrs. Raines sat there in the scene. She had a small white bit of sewing in her hands, but she was fast asleep. Gertrude put a hand on the white hair. It was parted now, and lay soft and straight on her forehead.

"Mother," said Gertrude softly; Mrs. Raines smiled in her sleep.

"I'm the youngest child," said Gertrude, and then she stopped, because Dick had kissed her.

THE SHOP AND RAILROAD NEWS

BIG LOCOMOTIVE DERAILED.

Santa Fe Oil Burner Left Rails at Winter Street.

One of the massive Mallet articulated compound engines built at the Baldwin works for the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe company, made a little trouble for the Pennsylvania yardmen this morning. It came here last night and was set upon a siding at Winter street to be taken to the round house this morning for some minor repairs and when a switch engine was pulling it out of the siding, the wheels of one of the groups of drivers left the rails at the curve. The wreck crew was called out and after an hour or two had the monster back on the rails. This big engine weighs 800,000 pounds, carries 12,000 gallons of water and 4,000 gallons of oil, the latter for fuel. It is the mate to the big engine built at the same shop which passed through Fort Wayne ten days ago and was described by The Sentinel. It will probably resume its journey this evening.

BILL OF LADEN SWINDLE.

Scrap Copper and Brass Scheme Worked East.

Dispatches from Baltimore, Md., indicate that the bill of laden swindle is being worked upon junk dealers in that city as well as in Indiana and Grant A. Ogline, chief of detectives of the Baltimore and Ohio, with his entire police force, is making an effort to run down the swindlers. Like the case mentioned by The Sentinel involving as a victim a well known Fort Wayne dealer a few days ago, the swindler down in Maryland presented for shipment to a junk dealer some barrels said to contain scrap rubber and brass, paid the freight charges and received a bill of lading. With this paper he presented himself before the Baltimore junk dealer and got an advance of $200 on the shipment. The barrels contained worthless stone and sand and the junk dealer is out his cash.

END OF A RED NOSE

New Flesh-Colored Product That Heals and Hides Skin Imperfections.

A peculiar feature of posam, a new skin discovery, is that it is naturally flesh-colored and contains no grease, so that when used on the face for the complexion, or for pimples, red noses, or any other inflammations, blemishes, or discolorations, its presence cannot be detected. It can thus be applied in the daytime, the natural color of the skin being immediately restored and the actual healing and curing process accomplished in a few days. It can be had of any pharmacist who sells pure drugs. Meyer Brothers' Drug Store make a specialty of it. Fifty cents worth will answer either for the troubles mentioned or in curing ordinary cases of eczema. Itching stops at once.

The Emergency Laboratories, No. 32 W. Twentieth Street, New York, are the sole dispensing agents for posam in the United States, and will send an experimental quantity free by mail in plain wrapper to all who write for it. This will show results after an overnight application.

OLD ACCOUNTANT DEAD.

Maj. H. D. Bulkeley, comptroller of the Baltimore and Ohio road, died at his home in Baltimore yesterday, aged 79 years. Major Bulkeley was connected with the B. & O. many years and for the past eighteen years was the auditor of the company. He was until recently president of the National Association of Railway Accountants and was well known in railway circles throughout the United States and Canada.

TAKING ON MORE FIREMEN.

The Pennsylvania is still hiring firemen when the right persons apply for positions. The company is very particular as to the physical condition of the men employed as firemen, taking none but those who are perfect. The applicant must also be endowed with some mental abilities, but, of course, the examinations in this line are not as rigid as are the examinations of those who would teach school or practice some profession.

MR. COLMEY RETURNS TONIGHT.

C. R. Colmey, road foreman of engines of the Pennsylvania, will return home tonight, after an absence of a month on a vacation. He first visited his mother in Chautauque, N. Y., and then went to Hot Springs, from whence he is coming today.

WILL GO WEST.

W. Kull, who has been employed in the Pennsylvania erecting shop about four years, resigned this morning. He has decided to go west, where he is promised a job in big shops.

INDUSTRIAL NOTES.

Blacksmith I. Bott and H. Plummer, of the planing mills, are new names on the Pennsylvania sick list.

Charles Moore and Frank Emmons have taken employment at the Bass boiler shop, with Foreman F. F. Benoy.

W. H. Sullivan, assistant foreman of the Pennsylvania shops at Pittsburg, is visiting the company's local shops today.

Louis Gronau, sick since November 2, was able to report for duty at the Pennsylvania planing mills this morning.

Machinist John Doyle, of the Pennsylvania shops, and his wife have gone to Chicago to spend the balance of the week with relatives.

Shop Clerk J. H. Hobrock, of the Pennsylvania, with his wife and children has gone to Grand Rapids for a short visit with relatives.

Herman Regel went to Eaton yesterday to make some repairs in the power plant of the paper mills. He will return home tomorrow night.

Mrs. Cartwright, wife of Operator W. G. Cartwright, of the G. R. & L., has gone to Kalamazoo, to attend the funeral of Mr. Cartwright's nephew, who died in that city last Wednesday morning.

Arthur D. Orr, of the electrical department of the Pennsylvania, now stationed at Conway, was with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Orr, over Thanksgiving day.

Engineer J. C. Polhamus, whose duties at the Pennsylvania is to take out newly repaired engines and try them for valve motion, etc., is spending a few days with relatives at Knox, Ind.

F. E. More, Pennsylvania motive power inspector, was the guest of relatives at Lima, O., yesterday, returning

DURING SLEEP

Nature Repairs the Human Engine.

The activities of the day cause more or less waste of tissues in the human engine, which is repaired at night during sleep.

The man or woman who can sleep well at night is sure of the necessary repairs, other things being right, to make each day a time of usefulness and living a real joy.

But let insomnia get hold of you, and the struggle begins, of trying to work with a machine out of repair. A Nebraska woman's experience with coffee as a producer of insomnia is interesting. She says:

"I used to be a coffee drinker and was so nervous I could not sleep at night before about 12 o'clock. Unless I would take some medicine, I was under the doctor's care for about five years and my weight got down to 82 pounds.

"The doctor said I would have to quit drinking coffee. Then my father got me to try Postum which he said had done wonders for him. I am past 43 and before I quit drinking coffee, my heart would jump and flutter at times, miss a beat, then beat so fast I could hardly breathe in enough air and I would get smothered.

"My tongue would get so stiff I could not talk and I could not hold a glass to drink from. Since I have been drinking Postum in place of coffee, I can sleep sound any time I lie down, and I feel I owe everything to Postum. I now weigh 120 pounds and am well."

here this morning. Mrs. More and the children remained at Lima for a longer visit.

Charles Cherry, Jr., electrical engineer at the power plant at Ashtabula Harbor for the Pennsylvania, will return to that place tonight, after spending Thanksgiving day with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Cherry.

George Killen distributed complimentary tickets to his moving picture show among his former associates at the Pennsylvania blacksmith shop Wednesday. Many of the men took their families to the show yesterday.

"John," an aged Clydesdale horse at the Bass works, was photographed yesterday. "John" is a pensioner now, having passed his twenty-fourth birthday, and pulls a light truck around the foundry yards when he feels like working. John B. Brown was the photographer in the case.

Because of the quantity and the excellent quality of the hay harvested in Indiana this past season, a tremendous traffic in it has sprung up. It is in demand both in the east and south and the railways are experiencing considerable trouble in supplying the cars to handle it.

One of the greatest railway projects of the coming year will be the starting of the work of building a second track for the Santa Fe from Chicago to the Pacific coast. Portions of the line is already double tracked, but by far the greater portion is a single track.

The Lake Shore railroad this week placed an order with the Brooks plant of the American Locomotive company for seventy-five freight and passenger engines, to be delivered as rapidly as they can be built. The same works are to build for the Big Four forty-five passenger and freight engines.

Herbert J. Loney, stenographer to Master Mechanic A. C. Davis, of the Pennsylvania, is visiting his brother, John Loney, a pipefitter in the Pennsylvania shops. Herbert Loney was a stenographer in the company's motive power office in this city before he went to Wellsville.

The traction line between Indianapolis and Newcastle, which has been building for a year or more, is nearly completed and the management expect to put it in operation early in January. Some of the electric equipment has been received and more is due to leave the manufacturers next week.

Engineer David Baldy, of the Pennsylvania, this morning received a letter from Indianapolis telling him that Mrs. Bush, who has been a frequent visitor at his home, is very ill, having suffered two strokes of apoplexy. She is the mother of Owen Bush, the Detroit short stop, who has been playing ball in Cuba and who arrived in Indianapolis yesterday to see her.

The new buffet car, which has the buffet in the center and a room at each end, is giving better satisfaction than the old style. It can be placed in the center of a train and patrons can enter it from either end, whereas the old style buffet car admitted the patrons only at one door. Several of the leading roads of the country are now using this new car.

R. J. Lyons, assistant road foreman of engines of the Pennsylvania, and his wife were guests at a house warming of Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Rice in Decatur yesterday and with other guests from Warsaw and Wabash participated in a grand Thanksgiving feast. Mr. Rice, who is a prosperous lumber dealer in Decatur, has just moved his family into a new house.

Captain Henry Stoll, of the Pennsylvania, is determined to break up the dangerous practice of boys jumping on

J. E. Carpenter, Wabash conductor, of Peru, captured two robbers who were pilfering the caboose of his train No. 92 yesterday at Sydney, Ill., and turned the robbers over to the police. While the train crew was absent the thieves entered and went through the pockets of all the clothes in the car. They received $5 from Carpenter just as he arrived and caught them. He recovered his money.

Capt. Thomas Toomey has supplied some of his warm friends with a copy of his photograph taken on November 10, the seventy-fifth anniversary of his birth. The photograph represents Captain Toomey holding a blackthorn cane, made from a limb of a bush which grew in Cork, Ireland, his native city. The cane was presented to the captain by Supt. Harry Fisher, who secured it while in Ireland a few months ago. Captain Toomey is the youngest old man in Fort Wayne and there are many not over fifty who are less active than he.

In securing the new figure the woman's size does not really matter. The thing that does count is the corset—let it be right and the figure it encircles will be made right—it will soon take on the corset shape. This is the figure story today. It assumes the correct shape.

We have any number of Warner's Corsets—made in the latest hipless mode and we guarantee that these corsets, regardless of what size woman you are, will give you curveless lines—which is the figure fashion.

The extra length in Warner's Corsets is unbonded, making the corset comfortable, sitting, walking or standing.

Remember that Warner's Corsets are made to a fashionable fit—made to wear—not to rust, break or tear.
